FUNERAL EXERCISES

In Memory of the Late Czar of Russia.

President and Mrs. Cleveland and the Cabinet Officers and Ladies Attend.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—Impressive ceremonies were held at the Russian legation here today in memory of Czar Alexander III, whose remains now lie in state at Moscow, soon to be buried in the imperial tomb of the czars. President Cleveland and the entire cabinet, except Postmaster General Bissel, attended, accompanied by Mrs. Cleveland and the cabinet ladies The foreign ambassadors and ministers with their extensive suites, wearing their rich official and court dress, were present in a body, lending brilliant color to the solemn occasion. Ambassador Bayard and ex-Secretary of State Foster were also there. As no Greek church exists in Washington the parlors of the legation were for the time being transferred into a place of worship, with an altar for the celebration of mass and ritual of the Greek faith. The services began at 9 o'clock this morning when mass was celebrated by Bishop Nicolas, of the Russian Greek church, assisted by a Greek monk and two attendants. These services, lasting until 10, were in private, being attended only by Prince Cantacuesene, the Russian minister, his daughter and the officials of the Russian legation. At 10 o'clock the chants and prayers for the repose of the czar's soul began in the presence of the president, members of the cabinet and diplomatic corps As each participant in the ceremony arrived he was given a wax candle to bear throughout the service. Prince Cantacusene met President and Mrs Cleveland at the doorway and escorted them to places immediately alongside the altar. The president and his wife each carried a candle, as did Secretary Gresham and all others present. As the chanting began the candles were lighted, lending a weird and picturesque aspect to the scene. The bishop was robed in the vestments of his office, his tiara being set with mosaics, rubies and emeralds, woven into jeweled embroideries, and his red velvet surplice being wound with a white satin stole, embroidered with gold and small jewels. The Greek monk was robed in a lengthy flowing black gown, falling from the top of a high head dress, from which appeared the long and shaggy bearded face of a typical Cossack of Romance. The bishop and his attendants chanted the service alternately, the Acolytes swinging the censer until the air was misty with incense. The service lasted half an hour, the candles being extinguished as the chants closed, after which the Prince Cantacuzene escorted President and Mrs. Cleveland to the door and the other guests withdrew.

MISSIONARIES FLEEING.

Driven Out of Manchuria by the Approach of the Japs.

The Chinese Army Retreats to the Mountains, Where the Soldiers Suffer From Cold.

LONDON, Nov. 9—A dispatch from Shanghai says that all the missionaries of the Presbyterian church of Ireland who have been working in Manchuria, have left the interior and have arrived in safety at New Chwang. Another dispatch from Shanghai says that the Japanese have undoubtedly captured Talien Wan, a short distance north of Port Arthur. The Chinese fleet is reported to have arrived at Wei-Hai-Wei.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 9—The Chinese army of the north has retreated to the mountains, where the soldieres are reported to be starving and suffering severely from cold and exposure The Japanese army is reported to be encamped at Feng Whang Cheng. The Japanese are pursuing some 15,000 Chinese, mostly raw recruits. Port Arthur is not expected to make a determined stand against the Japanese. Admiral Sir E. Freemantle, in command of the British fleet, considers that Port Arthur will probably be the scene of the last engagement of any importance between the Chinese and Japanese.

EIGHTEEN ROUNDS.

Zocker Knocked Out by Jimmy Owens at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 9.—Jimmy Owens, of San Francisco, and Fred Zocker, of this city, fought eighteen rounds on an island in the Mississippi river near here last night, resulting in a knock out for the former. Zocker rushes things from the start and during the first six rounds had things pretty much his own way. In the ninth Owens floored Zocker, scoring the first knock down. The end came in the eighteenth when Zocker was knocked down three times.

POLITICIAN IS SUED.

Ola Brown Wants $5,000 Damages for Breach of Promise.

PORTLAND, Ind., Nov. 9.—A sensation was produced here yesterday by the filing of a suit by Miss Ola Brown against Frank Gimmill, claiming $5,000 damages for breach of promise and seduction. Mr. Gimmill is one of the wealthiest men in this county and a prominent democratic politician.

ONE DAY ENOUGH FOR HIM.

A Newly Elected Official in Indiana Disgusted With His Place.

VALPARAISO, Ind., Nov. 9—Late yesterday afternoon the new Center township trustee took office. He had over twenty-five applications for help before bedtime He was so bothered that this morning he rushed to the auditor's office as soon as it was open and resigned his office

TEXAS SAFE.

Goes Democratic by Over 40,000.

The Congressional Ticket is Split and Divided Between the Parties-Tennessee in Doubt.

GALVESTON, Texas, Nov. 9—From the returns received here it is safe to state that the state democratic ticket is safely elected by 40 000 plurality, Culberson, candidate for governor, running about 10 per cent. behind his ticket because of his free silver views, which many democrats rebuked. The congressional delegation will not be solidly democratic Nonen, (republican) in the Twelfth district, is elected by 1,0000 plurality. In the Sixth, Kearby (pop) is so close to Abbott (dem) that the official returns will be necessary to determine the result. The same condition exists in the Thirteenth, where Gilleland (pop) has the lead of three democrats on a split ticket, and in the Seventh, where Barber (pop.) in slightly ahead of Pendleton (dem) as far as counted. The cumbersome ballot law in cities and tardiness in rural precincts makes the official count in doubtful districts impossible to get at before tomorrow.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 9—The vote for governor is very close between Turney, (dem) and Evans, (repn.) and the official returns will be necessary to determine the result The indications point to Evans' election.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo, Nov. 9—The results of Tuesday's election bearing upon the next Missouri legislature, as obtained from the most reliable unofficial information, show that of the thirty-four senators, eighteen will be democrats and sixteen republicans, this estimate conceding the defeat of the Twenty-fifth district democrat, which is not yet certain. The house will stand Democrats, 62; republicans, 76; populist, 2 These figures can hardly be changed by official canvasses. In the Second district the elected republican senator has been found to be disqualified. His democratic opponent refuses to take the seat though law allows him to and a new election will be held.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—Advices still continue to come to Chairman Babcock of the republican congressional committee. This morning Chairman Dixey, of Minnesota, telegraphed that the republicans would send a solid delegation to congress. This announcement increases Chairman Babcock's figures of the republicans in the next house to 256. Mr. Dixey said that the republicans would have 100 majority in the state legislature and that Nelson's majority for governor is between 50 000 and 60,000. Chairman Charles Train, of Utah, wires that Cannon(rep) is elected to congress and that, unless the republicans are counted out, they will control the constitutional convention. Chairman T. B Cornwall, of California, says that the republicans have elected six congressmen from that state and that Maguire is the only democrat elected. The republicans will control both branches of the legislature, but Estee is defeated by about 1,500.

LOCAL NEWS.

Dr. Porter reports Webber as getting along nicely.

Officer Caling is ill and will not be on duty this evening.

George B Fleming returned to Washington, D. C., this morning. He came home to vote.

Edward Clausmeier will succeed himself as sheriff and Harry Metzgar will succeed Daniel Souder as county clerk next Friday. Clarence Edsall succeeds Andrew Glutting as auditor one week from tomorrow. The other county officers-elect hold over until next year.

The Greek and Roman Churches.

Pope Leo says that, even though the patriarch of Armenia would not attend the conference to which his holiness summoned delegates of the Greek and Roman churches, he will not therefore cease from his efforts to reunite these two communions as they were in the old days of the Christian faith. The split began as far back as the year 585, when the Roman church adopted the dogma that the Holy Ghost proceeded from the Son as well as from the Father. The bishops of Constantinople refused to swallow this doctrine and declared that the Holy Spirit came only from the Father through the Son as medium. It does not seem, so long as the Christians themselves have the Holy Spirit, as though there need be any quarrel about where it comes from, yet this was made the basis of separation and generations of quarreling between the Greek and Roman churches. In these quarrels about where the Holy Spirit came from the Holy Spirit itself was quite lost, and a spirit of burning enmity and ferocity took its place, as is apt to happen in theological quarrels. Now evidently Pope Leo thinks it is time for both churches to infuse into themselves something of the Holy Spirit practically. Political ambitions which now have no sway helped to separate the two branches. It is not likely there can be any union, though, since theological ambitions have taken the place of the former political ones. The patriarch of Constantinople would not be likely ever to bring himself to the point of acknowledging the authority of the pope of Rome The Greek church in Russia permits the marriage of priests provided they take wives before they take orders. But it draws the line on second marriages for priests and fourth marriages for laymen.

IMPORTANT CHANGES

Will be Made by the Incoming Indiana Legislature.

All Boards of State Institutions to be Non-Partisan—Redistricting the State

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov 9—The Indiana republicans are preparing to gather all the fruit that the falling of the democratic tree has brought to the ground, and the first move will be made through their majority in the legislature. In 1883 a democratic legislature took from a republican governor the selection of the benevolent reformatory and penal boards of the state and vested that power in itself. In the last session of that body this power was voluntarily surrendered and the patronage was restored to the governor At a meeting of local republican leaders yesterday it was determined to take the patronage from the governor again, vest it in the legislature or in an appointing board of three persons and make all the state boards nonpartisan, that is, appoint two republicans and one democrat on each The majority is strong enough in each house to carry through any party measure and the proposed change will no doubt be effected

At the same meeting it was proposed to reapportion the state for congressional and legislative purposes, so as to secure the legislature for the republicans two years hence and get the United States senator to be elected at that time. The constitution provides for a reapportionment of the state every six years and such a measure could not be legally passed till 1897. It is proposed therefore to amend the present law, but to make the changes so marked that there will be a practical republican gerrymander born of the democratic measure. The republicans believe that they will be within the letter of the constitution if they amend the present law, though but little will be left of it but the title.

Considerable interest is being felt by the leaders of both parties in the showing that populists will make when the official vote is known. The democrats do not believe that the republican vote has been increased, but that theirs has been diminished either by stay-at-homes or by defection to the populists. The latter's committee, on meager returns, claim that their vote will reach 65,000, but the old party leaders regard this estimate as absurd, as it would be an increase of 43,000 over two years ago The populists, however, are conceded to have hurt the democrats, and it is believed that democratic loss in Daviess, Sullivan, Clay and other counties was populist gain. In all of these the populists increased their vote very materially. The vote in this county for the populists is but five to the precinct, and the total here will not be over 1,200. The prohibition vote is but four to the precinct.

Although the returns from the election are not yet tabulated, there are a half-dozen contests for places going on in the legislature, and every one who has an axe to grind is hunting a grindstone. The candidates for speaker of the house are J. C. Adams and W. H. Leedy.

Mr. Adams is advocated by Harry S. New, Roscoe O Hawkins, Harry C. Adams, and what is known in republican circles as "the Denison hotel politicians." The Columbia club is also supporting Mr. Adams. It is asserted by his opponents that Mr Adam's support is not due so much for love of him as to the desire of his supporters to get their friends into the important places and on the important committees.

Mr. Leedy is advocated by the Odd Fellows, of which order he was grand patriarch for a number of years, and locally he has the help of a large number of politicians and ward workers, many of whom want places that will be at his disposal. At some places the fight has become so acrimonious that there is talk of springing Clemens Vonnegut, jr, as a compromise candidate.

BRILLIANT METEOR

Which Illuminated the Skies of New Jersey.

DOVER, N. J., Nov. 9—Jerry Butler, of Kenville, was leaving his barn about 11:20 o'clock last night when the skies were suddenly illuminated by a blinding flash For an instant he was dazed; then he realized that an unusually brilliant meteor had caused the flash The seeming explosion was accompanied by a trail of bright, greenish hued light that seemed to linger in the Heavens for a long time after the shooting star had passed out of sight. The spectacle was followed fully a minute later by a distinct, yet muffled, explosion. People at New Brunswick were awakened about 12 o'clock by a heavy, rumbling explosion, followed about a half minute later by a bright flash of light, which illuminated the sky in a southwesterly direction. The general belief was that a meteor exploded This belief was strengthened by the discovery of a ragged hole in the ground in the woodland attached to the Borracm property, near the Raritan River railroad, between this city and Milltown. The same noise was heard and a similar flash of light seen at Metuchen, Milltole and other places

NO FIGHTS IN JACKSONVILLE.

Ordinance Permitting Them Repealed by the City Council.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 9—Among the sporting men of Jacksonville there is much surprise and more indignation at the action of the city council in repealing the municipal ordinance permitting glove contests This ordinance was passed in December last, was vetoed by the mayor and then passed over his veto. Its object was to allow the Corbett-Mitchell fight to come off here, and thus to thwart Governor Mitchell in his determination to stop it

WEDDED IN JAIL.

An Indicted Embezzler Married to a Texas Girl.

A Romantic Incident Which Occurred in the County Jail at Cleveland, Ohio.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 9—Today an altar was erected in Sheriff Ryan's private office at the county jail and a prisoner indicted for embezzlement was married to a fair young girl from Houston, Tex

The prisoner is James N. Bray, the twenty four-year-old son of an English army officer of high rank He came to this country several years ago, locating for a time in Texas. Some time ago he came to Cleveland and fitted up luxurious bachelor apartments, purchasing an elegant piano on the installment plan After paying a small amount on the instrument he sold it and was arrested and indicted for embezzlement.

The romantic end of the story came to the surface shortly after, when Miss Jennie Duty, of the Central Friendly Inn, and other Christian workers here received communications from Miss Grace Hugo, of Houston, Texas She said the arrest of Bray spoiled their marriage, but the event must occur, and unless the Cleveland ladies furnished the transportation she would walk to Cleveland.

Last Friday she arrived in the city. She did not walk and it is presumed the ladies of the W. C. T. U furnished her railroad fare. The wedding day was soon set. The bride is very handsome.

BANK ROBBED.

The Burglars Secure Only $400 in Silver.

While the Safe Containing $25,000 in the Vault Was Not Touched.

OBERLIN, Ohio, Nov. 9—Burglars broke into the First National bank here last night and got away with about $400 in silver. The front doors were opened by the use of crowbars and the locks of the vaults were blown off with dynamite. The thieves then stole two rigs to make their escape sure. One of the rigs was found at Elyria this morning. Investigation revealed the fact that the vaults had been opened, but that the safe, which contained $25 000, had not been touched. Upon a wooden tray in the vault was about $400 in silver. This alone was taken. The small fortune lying almost within reach of the thieves could not be secured.

ANOTHER ROBBERY.

LANDER, Wyo., Nov 9—Three masked men entered E F. Enderly's store at Thompolis, covered the proprietor with guns, and compelled him to give them $1,360 from the safe. Mr. Enderly and others pursued the robbers and shot one, who was recognized as Jake Snyder. He will die. The others escaped with most of the plunder.

Kid Thompson.

PHOENIX, Ara., Nov. 9—Kid Thompson and a man named Hopper have been brought from the Renown mountains under guard The former is supposed to be a Roscoe train robber and the latter is probably the same. He made a determined fight to avoid arrest The arrest was made by cowboys.

Embezzler Caught.

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 9—Geo W. Bogge, ex city treasurer, has been arrested on a warrant sworn by the county attorney, charging embezzlement of $24,386, the sum deposited by him in the suspended savings bank. Boggs immediately gave bail

Shot and Killed.

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Col., Nov. 9.—G. M. Cooley, a ranchman, shot and killed Patrick Bohn, another ranchman, four miles from Cardiff, on Four Mile Creek, yesterday. They quarreled over the ownership of some cattle.

Fifteen tramps enjoyed the hospitality of the police station last night.

For 13 years Czar Alexander has reigned, and in all that time, as has been said, his life has not been safe for a single day. No wonder he was attacked with lingering, wasting disease Worry deranges the secretions of the body; the suppressed poison attacks the lungs, kidneys or joints. Sometimes the long grief and desperation cause cancer and again heart trouble. Czar Alexander has been worried to death A thoroughly honest, conscientious man, kindly and well disposed besides, whose only aim was to do just the best thing for the great Russian people, he has nevertheless managed in every instance to do the exact wrong thing, so far as his own subjects were concerned. So far as other nations were concerned, when Alexander III's life history comes to be summed up, it will be said that he preserved the peace of Europe during his reign through sheer force of character. We of this republic must not forget either that, like his father, he was always the warm and consistent friend of the United States.

Oklahoma, our latest territory, has now a population of 212,633. That is not bad for an existence of five years There are six states already in the Union with fewer people than this. They are Delaware, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, North Dakota and Wyoming.

THE OFFICIAL COUNT

Shows the Election of the Entire Democratic County Ticket.

The Canvassing Board's Returns on Tuesday's Election for State, District, County and Township Offices.

The county canvassing board, which met yesterday morning for the purpose of making an official count of the votes cast for state, district and county officers at the election last Tuesday, did not complete their labors until 2 o'clock this morning, the task being a long and tedious one. Considerable delay was occasioned by the mistakes made by inspectors and judges on election boards in several instances the returns not having been correctly made up, and the parties were compelled to return home, in some instances to distant parts of the county, to make corrections. Some of the election officers neglected to bring their papers in, others had them improperly signed and this delayed the count. Mr. Gladio had to drive home eighteen miles to get his election certificates properly certified and it was after midnight when the returns from Monroe township were complete.

Chas H. Worden was the chairman of the board and Patrick Ryan and Louis Jocquel served as reading clerks to Clerk Souder and Deputy Clerk Frank Belot The footings were made for the board by experts, Otto Herbst and Charles Orr, representing the democratic and republican parties

Two years ago Allen county returned a democratic plurality of 4 500. The result of the official count by the board showed a big decrease, the plurality on the state ticket being reduced to 1,458 and that on the county to 1,168 for the highest candidate to 491 for the lowest on the democratic county ticket, all of whom were elected. The result of the official canvass was as follows.

For Secretary of State—William R. Myers, (dem) 8 284, William D. Owen, (rep) 6,826; Taylor, (pro.) 125; Robinson, (peo.) 672. Myers' plurality, 1,458

For Congress—McNagny, 8,054, Leighty, 6 937; James E Graham, 116; Freeman Kelley, 734. McNagny's plurality, 1,117.

For State Senator—Ellison, 7,846; White, 6,968; Omo, 76; Miller, 721. Ellison's plurality, 878

For Representatives—Bobylia, 7,985; Kell, 7 981; Dalman, 7,912, McGoogan, 6,808; Rogers, 6,776; Greenawalt, 6 877; Fowler, 107; English, 106, Engle, 105; Rhine, 671; Orr, 694; McCarthy, 656 Democratic plurality, 1,100.

For Judge Superior Court—Dawson, 8 065; Harper, 6,985. Dawson's plurality, 1,080.

For Judge Circuit Court—O'Rourke, 8,065; Robertson, 7,190. O'Rourke's plurality, 828

For Prosecutor—Doughman, 7,968; Leonard, 7,012. Doughman's plurality, 956.

For Clerk—Metzgar, 7,867; Cook, 7,013; Schroeder, 101; Haines, 601 Metzgar's plurality, 850.

For Auditor—Edsall, 7,894: Pettit, 7,041; Cromwell, 105; Notestine, 589. Edsall's plurality, 853.

For Recorder—Reichelderfer, 7,838; Soest, 6,953; Twining, 100; Tiernan, 592. Reichelderfer's plurality, 905.

For Treasurer—Hunter, 7,788; Detzor, 7 108. Watterson, 101; Rich, 632 Hunter's plurality, 680.

For Sheriff—Clausmeier, 7,957; Langtry, 7,032; Herrick, 105; Leasure, 562 Clausmeier's plurality, 925.

For Coroner—Harrod, 7,727; Duemling, 6,966; Ferguson, 118; Miller, 620 Harrod's plurality, 951.

For Surveyor—Branstrattor, 8,032, Merchant, 6,865; Evard, 110 Branstrattor's plurality, 1,168

For Commissioner—First District—Baker, 7,811; Hockemyer, 6 970, Whittern, 99; Sorgen, 614. Baker's plurality, 974.

For Commissioner, Second District—Ferguson, 7 877; Baird, 6,929; Parker, 113; Thumm, 612. Ferguson's plurality, 948

For Commissioner, Third District—Stellhorn, 7,620, Wilson, 7,139, Rauch, 99; Rapp, 656 Stellhorn's plurality, 491.

WAYNE TOWNSHIP

The official vote of Wayne township, in which Fort Wayne is situated, on the township ticket, showing the election of all the democratic candidates, was as follows:

For Trustee—Schmetzer (dem) 4,216, Gibson (rep), 4 082, Colles (pop) 551.

For Assessor—Walsh (dem), 4 257, Pyke (rep), 3 912; Haiber (pop), 494

For Constables—Lindsey (dem) 4 253, Roebke (dem), 4 225, Johnson (dem), 4 206, Kelly (dem), 4,303; Gindelsparger (rep) 3 939; Engle (rep) 3,849; Hirsch (rep), 3,890, Richards (pop) 495, Ferguson (pop) 496; Brunskill (pop) 498, Lebeau (pop) 518

CONGRESSIONAL RETURNS

The result in this congressional district shows the election of J D Brighty, the republican candidate for congress. The following figures are believed to be very nearly official, in some of the counties being entirely so

	BRIGHTY.	MYERS.
Allen county	400	1,117
DeKalb county	1,193
Noble county	189
Steuben county	1,201
Whitley county	88
Totals	3,162	1,117
Brighty's plurality	2,045

INDIANA'S VOTE.

The republican plurality at the late election in this state was the largest plurality of any election since Indiana was a state. At the first presidential election for Adams, Jackson and Clay in 1824, Jackson's plurality over Clay was 2,023. It is interesting to give all of the figures in this election. For Adams there were 3,095 votes, for Jackson, 7,343; for Clay, 5,315 In 1828 Jackson's plurality over Adams was 4,585. In 1832 Jackson's plurality over Clay was 16,080 In 1836 Harrison's plurality over Van Buren was 8 501. In 1840 Harrison's plurality over Van Buren was 13 667. In 1844 Polk's plurality over Clay was 2,314 In 1848 Cass' plurality over Taylor was 4,838 In 1852 Pierce's plurality over Scott was 14 439 In 1856 Buchanan's plurality over Fremont was 24,295 In 1860 Lincoln's plurality over Douglas 23,524 In 1864 Lincoln's plurality over McClellan was 20 189 In 1868 Grant's plurality over Seymour was 9,568 In 1872 Grant's plurality over Greeley was 22 515. In 1876 Tilden's plurality over Hayes was 5 515. In 1880 Garfield's plurality over Hancock was 6 642 In 1884 Cleveland's plurality over Blaine was 6 527. In 1888 Harrison's plurality over Cleveland was 2 694 In 1892 Cleveland's plurality over Harrison was 7 105

PETTY THIEVES.

Two Youngsters Charged With Stealing Oats.

Old Man Hoffer Again Appears in Police Court—After the Liquor Law Violators.

Thomas Allen, a lad aged fifteen or sixteen, was before the mayor this morning charged with stealing two bushels of oats from John H. Welch Allen entered a plea of not guilty. He asserted that he met another boy and helped him carry the grain until he learned it was stolen when he left it in his possession. He failed to give the name of the other boy, but Lieutenant Lapp asserts that it was Charlie Swayne, who will be arrested. The lieutenant says that there has been many complaints of petty thieving of late and there is plenty of evidence to prove that both Allen and Swayne entered Welch's place and carried away the oats. Mayor Oakley continued the case until 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

HOFFER AGAIN.

John Hoffer made his 'steenth appearance in mayor's court this morning. He has a habit of accumulating a slight "jag" and then abusing his wife The fellow was up to his old tricks last night and was arrested by Officer Buechner. Mayor Oakley sent Hoffer jail for eleven days.

HILKER'S BOND NOT REDUCED

Attorney A. H. Bittenger this morning again asked Mayor Oakley to reduce William Hilker's bond from $1,000. Deputy Prosecutor Charles Ryan objected and the mayor declined to change the bond until he was certain Webber was out of danger.

LIQUOR VIOLATIONS.

No arrests have been made for violations of the early closing law, but the mayor and Superintendent Liggett assert that they have evidence that several saloons make a practice of violating this law, but the evidence is not complete enough to secure conviction.

"I am convinced," said his honor, "that several high-toned saloons are violating the law and I may yet be compelled to revoke some of their licenses."

The mayor means business and some saloonkeepers will suffer unless they soon change their tactics.

John Hartman's Body Scattered in all Directions.

Norton Keifer and John Flynn the Other Victims—Property Damaged.

HUNTINGTON, Ind., Nov. 9.—[Special] —There was a terrible explosion in this city early this morning, and for several hours the city was in a wild state of excitement

Hallwood & Kiefer have the contract to build a big sewer in this city, and as there is so much limestone underneath the first foot or two of earth, it is necessary to do most of the excavating by blasting. Dynamite is used to do the blasting

This morning at 6:40 Norton Kiefer, foreman of the sewer gang, and John Hartman and John Flynn, laborers, were warming 100 pounds of dynamite on First street, near Market The dynamite came in contact with the fire and a terrific explosion followed, hurling the three men into the air and shaking buildings in all parts of the city. People rushed to the scene and were horrified at the sight. Kiefer was lying unconscious and Flynn was suffering intensely with one leg off and his face and head lacerated almost beyond recognition. Hartman's body was literally torn to pieces. His flesh was scattered about and small pieces were hanging in trees near by. One leg was found projecting from the siding of a building about 100 feet from the scene of explosion. The pieces were collected together, but the mass was unrecognizable. Kiefer was picked up and a start made for his home, but he died before he had been conveyed very far. Flynn was taken to the home of Dr. Scott, who is attending him, but there is no chance of his recovery, as he is suffering fatal internal injuries. Another laborer was crossing the sewer about seventy five feet away when the explosion occurred with fifty pounds of dynamite in his arms, but was uninjured.

There are many houses on both sides of the street where the accident occurred and dozens of them were damaged more or less The house occupied by Marion Wilbur, a Chicago and Erie engineer, was lifted several feet from the foundation, and as it dropped back the furniture and everything within was completely wrecked. Mrs Wilbur, who was alone, miraculously escaped any injury. The house of F. B M. Windle, adjoining the Wilbur property, was also wrecked but no person was injured In the houses of Hugh McCauley, Chris Allman, Miss Clara Ager and Dr Beaver all the windows were shattered and there was other slight damage.

The shock of the explosion was felt several blocks away and in some other houses window panes were broken. The pecuniary loss is estimated at $4,000.

Work on the sewer has been temporarily suspended and will probably not be resumed until after the funerals of the victims of the explosion.

IMPROVEMENT BONDS.

Some are Now Due and Property Owners are Becoming Delinquent.

There is a misunderstanding as to the payment of street improvement bonds and several property owners are becoming delinquent. Under the old law payment was made only in April each year. The new law, however, provides that where a street improvement is completed before October 1, the first payment of bonds must be made in November. The West Washington street pavement was completed before October 1 and the first payment of these bonds is now due. Many of the property owners do not know this and are becoming delinquent.

Postoffice Closed.

A few days ago Mrs. Josephine Phillips, postmistress at Wallen, this county, closed her office and moved to the city. The matter was reported to the department by Postmaster Rockhill, and yesterday he received advices from Washington that the Wallen office had been discontinued. Patrons of the Wallen office will receive their mail at the Fort Wayne office.

Rich Quartz Claims.

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 9—News from Alaska says that A. Hayward and C. D Lane, of San Francisco, have purchased twenty of the richest quartz claims in the Silver Bow Basin. The Alaska News, of Juneau, states it to be one of the biggest mining deals in the history of that city. It is said that England has laid claim to the head of the Chilkoot inlet, four hundred miles northwest of Juneau and near Mount St. Elias The claim is made as a result of the international boundary survey work, for the purpose of establishing a coaling station there.

TRUSTEE APPOINTED.

Benjamin McQuiston Commissioner Ferguson's Successor.

The News of the Day as Gathered in the Different Courts of the City.

At the meeting this morning of the board of commissioners of Allen county Benjamin McQuiston was appointed trustee of Washington township to fill the unexpired term of Matthew Ferguson, who resigned on account of his election last Tuesday to the office of county commissioner on the democratic ticket Mr. McQuiston was elected trustee at the election but would not have taken the office until next August, when Mr. Ferguson's term would have expired. Now he will enter upon his duties at once.

Mr. Ferguson will enter upon his duties as county commissioner in two weeks from next Tuesday. He has been the trustee of his township for five years and has discharged his duties in such a way as to have won for himself the opinion of his constituents that he was the best trustee that Washington township ever had. He is magnificently equipped for his duties as county commissioner, as are also Mr. Stellhorn and Mr. Baker, who will be associated with him on the board. The three gentlemen are practical business men, understand thoroughly the wants and needs of the county, and will, THE SENTINEL feels assured, manage the affairs of Allen county in such a way as to be for the best interests of all.

On the night of November 1 several boys committed some depredations on the premises of Mrs. Lydia Oberlin, in Nebraska. Today James Dalton, Albert Hayes, Gustave Zeroll, Herman Kalback and John Allway were arrested for the act. The father of Allway settled the damage for that lad. The other boys are having a hearing this afternoon before Justice France.

E. V. Emrick, as attorney for the estate of Dr. G. N. Worley, appeared before Judge O'Rourke in the circuit court and had Dr. Ruhl appointed as guardian of the deceased's son, William Worley.

IT IS all over Now let us get down to business and see who can help the most to bring about prosperous and happy times.

ALLEN county, stand up and receive congratulations. You carried the old flag through once more safely and we beleive you elected one of the best tickets we ever had.

IF WE had only carried Delaware! She has gone back on us for the first time for many, many years. We thought we could always count on her in case of emergency.

JAPAN has the right spirit. Instead of putting their prisoners to death, like the Chinesee did the Japanese, they treat them so kindly that the Chinese soldiers say they are served better than they are by their own people and refuse to return home.

A GENTLEMAN who has had much to do with Allen county politics says that he firmly believes that if the republicans had not made the personal fight they did during the last two weeks they would have received many more votes for their county ticket. The abusive circulars aggrivated the democrats and made them stick closer to party lines.

MR. HARRISON says this is the greatest revolution known in our political history. It is a big one. And yet memory will go back to the election of 1890, when the democrats carried a majority of the congressional delogations of thirty-one states, electing 233 representatives and leaving the republicans eighty-eight. But that was one of the revolutions that Mr. Harrison does not care to dwell on. In this day and generation it does not take much to make people change their way of voting.

THE new constitutional amendments adopted at the late election in New York will completely rid that state of gambling and betting on horse races. The horsemen over the state have already commenced a loud wail and the gamblers are packing their gripsacks for the west. Now, if they had only put an ironclad temperance clause in the constitution that would have broken the backbone of the rum power. New York might then have turned out to be a pretty good state—something like Indiana.

State Officers' Terms.

The newly elected state officers will take their offices on the following dates:

William D. Owen, secretary of state, January 17, 1895.

Americus C Daily, auditor of state, January 25, 1895.

F. J. Scholz, treasurer of state, February 9, 1895

William A. Ketcham, attorney general, November 22, 1894

Alexander Hess, clerk of the supreme court, November 22, 1894.

David M. Geeting, superintendent of public instruction, March 15, 1895.

Simon J. Thompson, chief of the bureau of statistics, November 19, 1894

Willis S. Blatchley, state geologist November 19, 1894.

Tomorrow's Sentinel.

Few prophets during the exciting days of the rebellion would have had the temerity to predict that within thirty years a daughter of Jeff Davis would have become engaged to the grandson of one of his bitterest enemies, an arch abolitionist, and that a distinguished southern general would capture the daughter of the great northern chieftain, General Grant, and yet not only has all this come to pass, but there are other signal examples of the triumphs of the little archer. Indeed the actual facts are stranger than the most audacious fiction, and in tomorrow's SENTINEL we will tell something about these interesting love romances—the courtship and marriage of Winnie Davis and Nellie Grant, the one to a northerner, the son of a noted abolitionist, and the other to a confederate soldier who was on Stonewall Jackson's staff during the war. In the article we will use pictures of the two brides.

In view of the fact that Fort Wayne has a Young Woman's Christian association, which, by the way, is doing a good and grand work. Our readers will be interested in an article which we will publish tomorrow giving a description of the new building for the Y. W. C. A. which is being built in Chicago and the work the association is accomplishing there. It has a main home temporarily at 291 Michigan avenue, another at 5718 Kimbark avenue, a home for transients at 367 Jackson boulevard and an employment bureau at 243 Wabash avenue, all of which are to be concentrated in the new building, which is also to be a woman's hotel and boarding house. It will be seven stories high and magnificent in its structure.

A clergyman who is a lover of horse racing and who believes in the stage is somewhat of a rarity in this country, but such a man is Rev. Dr. Samuel Reynolds Hole, dean of Rochester, an eminent English divine, who is now lecturing in this country. Tomorrow's SENTINEL will have an article of interest about this divine, giving his picture and his opinion of horse racing.

Another article will be one on "How to Plough," from I. M. Dexter, a noted agricultural writer. It will be interesting not only to those who are engaged in farming but to many others of our readers.

The name of Germany's new chancellor is one which will attract attention. It is Prince Chlodwig Carl Victor Hohenlohe Schillingfurst. Despite his seventy-five years, the prince is remarkably vigorous and in full possession of all his mental faculties. With Bismarck, Gladstone and many others he is a proof that this is indeed an era of vigorous old men. With the chancellorship of the empire he also takes that of the kingdom of Prussia, as was the case with Bismarck. Tomorrow's SENTINEL will publish the life of the prince and in connection with it use his picture.

Only a few days THE SENTINEL published a telegram giving an account of the rebellion of the Rajahs in the East Indies and one of the battles which had been fought. Tomorrow's SENTINEL will tell something about the Acheen war which will prove instructive to our readers.

Another article will be one giving the life and picture of Chief Naval Constructor Phillip Hichborn of the United States navy, who has been sent to the scene of the war between Japan and China to note what the modern ironclad can do in battle

The sermon of Talmage will be the usual feature of the Saturday's SENTINEL as will also be the humorous articles of Bill Nye and Charles B. Lewis Religious reading, fashions, secret society news, wit and humor, and miscellaneous reading of different kinds will make tomorrow's paper an attractive and interesting number to all of our readers.

November Meteors.

There has been found so close a relation between the orbits of comets and meteor streams that it is now believed the meteors are fragments of burst comets. When a comet goes astray, it prances wildly through space awhile, then bursts, as is supposed. The fragments follow on around the sun in the same course as the comet did. The comet disappears, and the fragments take its place Being of all sizes, they naturally string out over a great distance and at length present the appearance of a ring of fragments following one another around the sun. The orbit in which they travel sometimes crosses that of the planets. When our earth passes through this string of meteors, those that are near enough to us to touch our atmosphere are ignited and fall to the earth with a remarkably dull thud.

Twice a year the earth passes through meteor rings, once about the 10th of August and again the 12th of November. It is well to be on the lookout for a night or two before and after those dates if one would take in the whole display. Some years the show is marvelously brilliant, the whole sky appearing to rain stars. The November meteors are especially dazzling every 33 or 34 years. The next great display will come in 1899 or 1900 The reason the November shooting stars are more numerous and bright every 33 or 34 years is that the fragments of the comet have not yet been evenly distributed around the ring, and the earth on those years passes through the place where its head probably was.

From the 10th to the 14th of November the meteoric shower will occur. If the nights are clear, it will pay all who can get a view of the open sky to catch nature's great panorama. To young people the shooting stars will be especially interesting. Probably the night of the 12th will be the best time if one goes on the lookout only one night. They appear in fine array by 9 o'clock.

They come principally from the same quarter of the heavens. The meteors between the 10th and 14th of November take their rise mostly in the constellation Leo. They are therefore called leonids. They will come from a point in the heavens a little north of due east. It is the friction of moving through the earth's atmosphere at tremendous speed that makes them take fire. Only for that we should not see them. They are merely dark stones.

After all, what good did it do the robbers who held up the train and captured $20,000, more or less, from the express car at Aquia Creek, Va.? They themselves have been captured, and one of them, who weakened, confessed and guided the officers to the spot where part of the plunder was hidden. He had got drunk and gambled away several hundred dollars of the money he carried off with him when the officers got him That was three or four days after the robbery. If he had been let alone, probably every cent of it would have disappeared in three weeks. So what good?

Politics makes stranger bedfellows than even poverty. Verily the days when the lion and the lamb lie down together have come when McKinley, except Tom Reed, the most rampant Republican of the fall campaign, makes a Republican speech in New Orleans to 13,000 people and is enthusiastically applauded.

"Try one of these," said the admiral, holding out his cigar case. "They are not bad. I got them on the Mosquito coast. I was thinking of signaling to you, but you seemed so very happy out there."

"Mrs. Westmacott is a very clever woman," said the doctor, lighting the cigar. "By the way, you spoke about the Mosquito coast just now. Did you see much of the Hyla when you were out there?"

"No such name on the list," answered the seaman with decision. "There's the Hydra, a harbor defense turret ship, but she never leaves the home waters."

The doctor laughed. "We live in two separate worlds," said he. "The Hyla is the little green tree frog, and Beale has founded some of his views on protoplasm upon the appearances of its nerve cells. It is a subject in which I take an interest."

"There were vermin of all sorts in the woods. When I have been on river service, I have heard it at night like the engine room when you are on the measured mile. You can't sleep for the piping and croaking and chirping. Great Scott, what a woman that is! She was across the lawn in three jumps. She would have made a captain of the foretop in the old days."

"She is a very remarkable woman."

"A very cranky one."

"A very sensible one in some things," remarked Mrs. Hay Denver.

"Look at that now!" cried the admiral, with a lunge of his forefinger at the doctor. "You mark my words, Walker, if we don't look out that woman will raise a mutiny with her preaching. Here's my wife disaffected already, and your girls will be no better. We must combine, man, or there's an end of all discipline."

"No doubt she is a little excessive in her views," said the doctor, "but in the main I think as she does."

"Bravo, doctor!" cried the lady.

"What, turned traitor to your sex! We'll court martial you as a deserter."

"She is quite right. The professions are not sufficiently open to women. They are still far too much circumscribed in their employments. They are a feeble folk, the women who have to work for their bread—poor, unorganized, timid, taking as a favor what they might demand as a right. That is why their case is not more constantly before the public, for if their cry for redress was as great as their grievance it would fill the world to the exclusion of all others. It is all very well for us to be courteous to the rich, the refined, those to whom life is already made easy. It is a mere form, a trick of manner. If we are truly courteous, we shall stoop to lift up struggling womanhood when she really needs our help—when it is life and death to her whether she has it or not. And then to cant about it being unwomanly to work in the higher professions. It is womanly enough to starve, but unwomanly to use the brains which God has given them. Is it not a monstrous contention?"

The admiral chuckled. "You are like one of these phonographs, Walker," said he. "You have had all this talked into you, and now you are reeling it off again. It's rank mutiny, every word of it, for man has his duties and woman has hers, but they are as separate as their natures are. I suppose that we shall have a woman hoisting her pennant on the flagship presently and taking command of the Channel squadron."

"Well, you have a woman on the throne taking command of the whole nation," remarked his wife, "and everybody is agreed that she does it better than any of the men."

The admiral was somewhat staggered by this home thrust. "That's quite another thing," said he.

"You should come to their next meeting. I am to take the chair. I have just promised Mrs. Westmacott that I will do so. But it has turned chilly, and it is time that the girls were indoors. Good night. I shall look out for you after breakfast for our constitutional, admiral."

The old sailor looked after his friend with a twinkle in his eyes.

"How old is he, mother?"

"About 50, I think."

"And Mrs. Westmacott?"

"I heard that she was 48."

The admiral rubbed his hands and shook with amusement. "We'll find one of these days that three and two make one," said he. "I'll bet you a new bonnet on it, mother."

CHAPTER IV.
A SISTER'S SECRET.

"Tell me, Miss Walker. You know how things should be. What would you say was a good profession for a young man of 26 who has had no education worth speaking about and who is not very quick by nature?" The speaker was Charles Westmacott, and the time this same summer evening in the tennis ground, though the shadows had fallen now and the game been abandoned.

The girl glanced up at him, amused and surprised.

"Do you mean yourself?"

"Precisely."

"But how could I tell?"

"I have no one to advise me. I believe that you could do it better than any one. I feel confidence in your opinion."

"It is very flattering." She glanced up again at his earnest, questioning face, with its Saxon eyes and drooping flaxen mustache, in some doubt as to whether he might be joking. On the contrary, all his attention seemed to be concentrated upon her answer.

"It depends so much upon what you can do, you know. I do not know you sufficiently to be able to say what natural gifts you have." They were walking slowly across the lawn in the direction of the house.

"I have none—that is to say, none worth mentioning. I have no memory, and I am very slow."

"But you are very strong?"

"Oh, if that goes for anything. I can put up a hundred-pound bar till further orders, but what sort of a calling is that?"

Some little joke about being called to the bar flickered up in Miss Walker's mind, but her companion was in such obvious earnest that she stifled down her inclination to laugh.

"I can do a mile on the cinder track in 4:30 and across country in 5:20, but how is that to help me? I might be a cricket professional, but it is not a very dignified position. Not that I care a straw about dignity, you know, but I should not like to hurt the old lady's feelings."

"Your aunt's?"

"Yes, my aunt's. My parents were killed in the mutiny, you know, when I was a baby, and she has looked after me ever since. She has been very good to me. I'm sorry to leave her."

"But why should you leave her?" They had reached the garden gate, and the girl leaned her racket upon the top of it, looking up with grave interest at her big, white flannel companion.

"It's Browning," said he.

"What!"

"Don't tell my aunt that I said it"—he sank his voice to a whisper—"I hate Browning."

Clara Walker rippled off into such a merry peal of laughter that he forgot the evil things which he had suffered from the poet and burst out laughing too.

"I can't make him out," said he. "I try, but he is one too many. No doubt it is very stupid of me. I don't deny it. But as long as I cannot there is no use pretending that I can. And then of course she feels hurt, for she is very fond of him and likes to read him aloud in the evenings. She is reading a piece now, 'Pippa Passes,' and I assure you, Miss Walker, that I don't even know

But there came no confession from Ida, only the same mischievous smile and amused gleam in her deep blue eyes.

"That gray foulard dress"—she began.

"Oh, you little tease! Come now, I will ask you what you have just asked me. Do you like Harold Denver?"

"Oh, he's a darling!"

"Ida!"

"Well, you asked me. That's what I think of him. And now, you dear old inquisitive, you will get nothing more out of me, so you must just wait and not be too curious. I'm going off to see what papa is doing." She sprang to her feet, threw her arms round her sister's neck, gave her a final squeeze and was gone. A chorus from "Olivette," sung in her clear contralto, grew fainter and fainter until it ended in the slam of a distant door.

But Clara Walker still sat in the dim lit room with her chin upon her hands and her dreamy eyes looking out into the gathering gloom. It was the duty of her, a maiden, to play the part of a mother—to guide another in paths which her own steps had not yet trodden. Since her mother died not a thought had been given to herself; all was for her father and her sister.

In her own eyes she was herself very plain, and she knew that her manner was often ungracious when she would most wish to be gracious. She saw her face as the glass reflected it, but she did not see the changing play of expression which gave it its charm—the infinite pity, the sympathy, the sweet womanliness which drew toward her all who were in doubt and in trouble, even as poor, slow moving Charles Westmacott had been drawn to her that night. She was herself, she thought, outside the pale of love. But it was very different with Ida, merry, little, quick witted, bright faced Ida. She was born for love. It was her inheritance. But she was young and innocent. She must not be allowed to venture too far without help in those dangerous waters.

Some understanding there was between her and Harold Denver. In her heart of hearts Clara, like every good woman, was a matchmaker, and already she had chosen Denver of all men as the one to whom she could most safely confide Ida. He had talked to her more than once on the serious topics of life, on his aspirations, on what a man could do to leave the world better for his presence. She knew that he was a man of a noble nature, high minded and earnest. And yet she did not like this secrecy, this disinclination upon the part of one so frank and honest as Ida to tell her what was passing. She would wait, and if she got the opportunity next day she would lead Harold Denver himself on to this topic. It was possible that she might learn from him what her sister had refused to tell her.

CHAPTER V.
A NAVAL CONQUEST.

It was the habit of the doctor and the admiral to accompany each other upon a morning ramble between breakfast and lunch. The dwellers in those quiet tree lined roads were accustomed to see the two figures—the long, thin, austere seaman and the short, bustling, tweed clad physician—pass and repass with such regularity that a stopped clock has been reset by them. The admiral took two steps to his companion's three, but the younger man was the quicker, and both were equal to a good 4½ miles an hour.

It was a lovely summer day which followed the events which have been described. The sky was of the deepest blue, with a few white fleecy clouds drifting lazily across it, and the air was filled with the low drone of insects or with a sudden sharper note as bee or blue fly shot past with its quivering long drawn hum, like an insect tuning fork. As the friends topped each rise which leads up to the Crystal palace they could see the dun clouds of London stretching along the northern sky line, with spire or dome breaking through the low lying haze. The admiral was in high spirits, for the morning post had brought good news of his son.

"It is wonderful, Walker," he was saying, "positively wonderful, the way that boy of mine has gone ahead during the last three years. We heard from Pearson today. Pearson is the senior partner, you know, and my boy the junior—Pearson & Denver the firm. Cunning old dog is Pearson, as cute and as greedy as a Rio shark. Yet he goes off for a fortnight's leave and puts my boy in full charge, with all that immense business in his hands, and a free hand to do what he likes with it. How's that for confidence, and he only three years upon 'change?"

"Any one would confide in him. His face is a surety," said the doctor.

"Go on, Walker." The admiral dug his elbow at him. "You know my weak side. Still it's truth all the same. I've been blessed with a good wife and a good son, and maybe I relish them the more for having been cut off from them so long. I have much to be thankful for."

"And so have I. The best two girls that ever stepped. There's Clara, who has learned as much medicine as would give her the L. S. A., simply in order that she may sympathize with me in my work. But, hullo, what is this coming along?"

"All drawing and the wind astern!" cried the admiral. "Fourteen knots if it's one. Why, by George, it is that woman!"

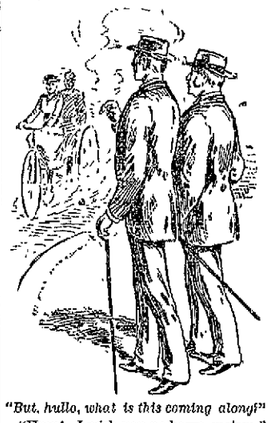
A rolling cloud of yellow dust had streamed round the curve of the road, and from the heart of it had emerged a high tandem tricycle flying along at a breakneck pace. In front sat Mrs. Westmacott clad in a heather tweed pea jacket, a skirt which just passed her knees and a pair of thick gaiters of the same material. She had a great bundle of red papers under her arm, while Charles, who sat behind her clad in Norfolk jacket and knickerbockers, bore a similar role protruding from either pocket. Even as they watched, the pair eased up, the lady sprang off, impaled one of her bills upon the garden railing of an empty house, and then jumping on to her seat again was about to hurry onward when her nephew called her attention to the two gentlemen upon the footpath.

"Oh, now, really I didn't notice you," said she, taking a few turns of the treadle and steering the machine across to them. "Is it not a beautiful morning?"

"Lovely," answered the doctor. "You seem to be very busy."

"I am very busy." She pointed to the colored paper which still fluttered from the railing. "We have been pushing our propaganda, you see. Charles and I have been at it since 7 o'clock. It is about our meeting. I wish it to be a great success. See!" She smoothed out one of the bills, and the doctor read his own name in great black letters across the bottom.

"We don't forget our chairman, you see. Everybody is coming. Those two dear little old maids opposite, the Williamses, held out some time, but I have their promise now. Admiral, I am sure that you wish us well."



"But, hullo, what is this coming along?"

"Hum! I wish you no harm, ma'am."

"You will come on the platform?"

"I'll be —. No, I don't think I can do that."

"To our meeting, then?"

"No, ma'am. I don't go out after dinner."

"Oh, yes, you will come. I will call in if I may and chat it over with you when you come home. We have not breakfasted yet. Goodby!" There was a whir of wheels, and the yellow cloud rolled away down the road again. By some legerdemain the admiral found that he was clutching in his right hand one of the obnoxious bills. He crumpled it up and threw it into the roadway.

"I'll be hanged if I go, Walker," said he as he resumed his walk. "I've never been hustled into doing a thing yet, whether by woman or man."

"I'm not a betting man," answered the doctor, "but I rather think that the odds are in favor of your going."

The admiral had hardly got home and had just seated himself in his dining room when the attack upon him was renewed. He was slowly and lovingly unfolding The Times preparatory to the long read which led up to luncheon, and had even got so far as to fasten his golden pince-nez on to his thin, high bridged nose, when he heard a scrunching of gravel, and looking over the top of his paper saw Mrs. Westmacott coming up the garden walk. She was still dressed in the singular costume which offended the sailor's old fashioned notions of propriety, but he could not deny as he looked at her that she was a very fine woman. In many climes he had looked upon women of all shades and ages, but never upon a more clear cut, handsome face, nor a more erect, supple and womanly figure. He ceased to glower as he gazed upon her, and the frown was smoothed away from his rugged brow.

"May I come in?" said she, framing herself in the open window, with a background of greensward and blue sky. "I feel like an invader deep in an enemy's country."

"It is a very welcome invasion, ma'am," said he, clearing his throat and pulling at his collar. "Try this garden chair. What is there that I can do for you? Shall I ring and let Mrs. Denver know that you are here?"

"Pray do not trouble, admiral. I only looked in with reference to our little chat this morning. I wish that you would give us your powerful support at our coming meeting for the improvement of the condition of woman."

"No, ma'am. I can't do that." He pursed up his lips and shook his grizzled head.

"And why not?"

"Against my principles, ma'am."

"But why?"

"Because woman has her duties, and man has his. I may be old fashioned, but that is my view. Why, what is the world coming to? I was saying to Dr. Walker only last night that we shall have a woman wanting to command the Channel fleet next."

"That is one of the few professions which cannot be improved," said Mrs. Westmacott, with her sweetest smile. "Poor woman must still look to man for protection."

"I don't like those new fangled ideas, ma'am. I tell you honestly that I don't. I like discipline, and I think every one is the better for it. Women have got a great deal which they had not in the days of our fathers. They have universities all for themselves, I am told, and there are women doctors, I hear. Surely they should rest contented. What more can they want?"

"You are a sailor, and sailors are always chivalrous. If you could see how, things really, are you would change your opinion. What are the poor things to do? There are so many of them and so few things to which they can turn their hands. Governesses? But there are hardly any situations. Music and drawing? There is not one in fifty who has any special talent in that direction. Medicine? It is still surrounded with difficulties for women, and it takes many years and a small fortune to qualify. Nursing? It is hard work ill paid, and none but the strongest can stand it. What would you have them do then, admiral? Sit down and starve?"

"Tut, tut! It is not so bad as that."

"The pressure is terrible. Advertise for a lady companion at 10 shillings a week, which is less than a cook's wage, and see how many answers you get. There is no hope, no outlook, for these struggling thousands. Life is a dull, sordid struggle, leading down to a cheerless old age. Yet when we try to bring some little ray of hope, some chance, however distant, of something better we are told by chivalrous gentlemen that it is against their principles to help."

The admiral winced, but shook his head in dissent.

"There are banking, the law, veterinary surgery, government offices, the civil service, all these at least should be thrown freely open to women if they have brains enough to compete successfully for them. Then if woman were unsuccessful it would be her own fault, and the majority of the population of this country could no longer complain that they live under a different law from the minority, and that they are held down in poverty and serfdom, with every road to independence sealed to them."

"What would you propose to do, ma'am?"

"To set the more obvious injustices right, and so to pave the way for a reform. Now, look at that man digging in the field. I know him. He can neither read nor write, he is steeped in whisky, and he has as much intelligence as the potatoes that he is digging. Yet the man has a vote, can possibly turn the scale of an election and may help to decide the policy of this empire. Now, to take the nearest example, here am I, a woman who has had some education, who has traveled, and who has seen and studied the institutions of many countries. I hold considerable property, and I pay more in imperial taxes than that man spends in whisky, which is saying a great deal, and yet I have no more direct influence upon the disposal of the money which I pay than that fly which creeps along the wall. Is that right? Is it fair?"

The admiral moved uneasily in his chair. "Yours is an exceptional case," said he.

"But no woman has a voice. Consider that the women are a majority in the nation. Yet if there was a question of legislation upon which all the women were agreed upon one side and all the men upon the other, it would appear that the matter was settled unanimously when more than half the population were opposed to it. Is that right?"

Again the admiral wriggled. It was very awkward for the gallant seaman to have a handsome woman opposite to him bombarding him with questions to none of which he could find an answer. "Couldn't even get the tompions out of his guns," as he explained the matter to the doctor that evening.

"Now, those are really the points that we shall lay stress upon at the meeting. The free and complete opening of the professions, the final abolition of the zenana, I call it, and the franchise to all women who pay queen's taxes above a certain sum. Surely there is nothing unreasonable in that—nothing which could offend your principles. We shall have medicine, law and the church, all rallying that night for the protection of woman. Is the navy to be the one profession absent?"

The admiral jumped out of his chair with an evil word in his throat. "There, there, ma'am," he cried. "Drop it for a time. I have heard enough. You've turned me a point or two. I won't deny it. But let it stand at that. I will think it over."

"Certainly, admiral. We would not hurry you in your decision. But we still hope to see you on our platform." She rose and moved about in her lounging masculine fashion from one picture to another, for the walls were thickly covered with reminiscences of the admiral's voyages.

"Hullo!" said she. "Surely this ship would have furled all her lower canvas and reefed her topsails if she found herself on a lee shore with the wind on her quarter."

"Of course she would. The artist was never past Gravesend, I swear. It's the Penelope as she was on the 14th of June, 1857, in the throat of the straits of Banca, with the island of Banca on the starboard bow and Sumatra on the port. He painted from description, but of course, as you very sensibly say, all was snug below, and she carried stormsails and double reefed topsails, for it was blowing a cyclone from the sou'east. I compliment you, ma'am, I do indeed!"

"Oh, I have done a little sailoring myself—as much as a woman can aspire to, you know. This is the bay of Funchal. What a lovely frigate!"

"Lovely, you say! Ah, she was lovely! That is the Andromeda. I was a mate aboard of her—sublieutenant they call it now, though I like the old name best."

"What a lovely rake her masts have, and what a curve to her bows! She must have been a clipper."

The old sailor rubbed his hand, and his eyes glistened. As old ships bordered close upon his wife and his son in his affection.

"I know Funchal," said the lady carelessly. "A couple of years ago I had a 7-ton cutter rigged yacht, the Banshee, and we ran over to Madeira from Falmouth."

"You, ma'am, in a 7-tonner?"

"With a couple of Cornish lads for a crew. Oh, it was glorious! A fortnight right out in the open, with no worries, no letters, no callers, no petty thoughts, nothing but the grand works of God, the tossing sea and the great silent sky. They talk of riding—indeed I am fond of horses, too—but what is there to compare with the swoop of a little craft as she pitches down the long, steep side of

and pails, and cans, and bottles (even baby's)—or anything that you want particularly clean, ought to be washed with Pearline.

You'll save work in doing it, and it's a great deal more thoroughly done. Dairies and dealers use Pearline extensively. Just try it once, on your milk-ware or butter-ware—and then say if it isn't the most satisfactory way of cleaning. Pearline is the most economical thing you can use, too. You get so much more out of it.

The competition will close December 1. As soon as possible after that date we will pay for accepted designs and return the others. Remember, for complete, acceptable advertisements we pay

We Pay for Ideas

$10 Each

Directions.—Make drawings with black ink on heavy white paper, or card board. Do the work in outline. Elaborate shading will not print well. Space in papers will be four inches square. Draw to larger scale if you prefer, but have design square. The idea is most important. If that is good we can have it redrawn and still give you credit. Avoid poetry. Get up an ad. that would make you buy the article.

Points.—Santa Claus is a pure, high-grade Soap—made for laundry and general household use—a favorite wherever known. Merits generous praise. Sold by all grocers, wholesale and retail.

FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT.

Peter Sommers Crushed to to Death Beneath an Engine.

Brakeman Schultz Has a Hand Mashed —Conductor Frye Killed—Joseph Hagenrather Injured.

Peter J. Sommers a brakeman on the Fort Wayne, Cincinnati and Louisville railroad, met with a shocking accident, which resulted in death, at Montpelier, last evening. Sommers was engaged in switching cars. A box car in front of the engine had to be uncoupled and the unfortunate man ran in between them. His foot slipped as he ran and he went directly under the engine pilot, where he was rolled about and was frightfully mutilated. He was taken out silll alive but fatally injured. His breast was caushed in and his legs were frightfully skinned and bruised. The accident happened at 3:15 and the poor fellow lived until 5 o'clock, and his wife was able to reach him before he died and hear his last words. The remains were brought to this city on the 10 10 o'clock train last night, taken to Peltier's morgue and thence to the home, 418 South Clinton street. Mr. Sommers was thirty-five years old and leaves a wife and two small children. Prior to the strike last summer he was a passenger conductor on the Grand Rapids road. After leaving that road he went to Ashley and for a few weeks had a freight run on the new Wabash line. Losing that position he came back to this city and took a position as freight brakeman on the "Muncie" road The deceased was very popular with his fellow railroad men as well as with men in other walks of life. He was a member of the Catholic Benevolent Legion and of the Order or Railway Conductors. John Sommers, of No. 58 Hendricks street, is a brother of the deceased and there are two sisters living, who reside in the country, near this city. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock from St. Patrick's church. It will be under the auspices of the Catholic Benevolent Legion.

HAND MANGLED BY A SAW.

Joseph Hagenrather, an employe of Rhinesmith & Simonson, got his left hand in contact with a small circular saw yesterday. The third and fourth fingers were mangled frightfully, but the bones were not broken and Dr. J. E. Miller, the attending surgeon, hopes to save the injured members. Mr Hagenrather is married and lives on Nirdlinger avenue. He will be unable to work for at least a month.

RAILROAD CONSOLIDATION.

A consolidation was effected yesterday in Toledo of the Fort Wayne and Eastern railway of Indiana and the Ohio Railway company. The new road will be known as the Findlay, Fort Wayne and Western Railway company. The officers of the new road are George Lord Day, president; C. C. Patterson, vice president; C. T. Lewis and Henry B. Ely, treasurers. The following directors were elected: G. L. Day and John Jacob Astor, of New York; J. H Daylor, C. T. Lewis and A. W. Scott, of Toledo, and C. N. Haskell, of Ottawa.

POWER STATION ENGINE BROKEN.

A costly accident happened yesterday out at the electric light power station, on Spy Run avenue. The engineer in shutting down the big 500 horse-power Bass engine, neglected to first shut off a water pipe, and the result was the complete wreck of the main pillow block. The machinery was also more or less damaged and it will cost considerable to repair it. The work of repairing the engine will be commenced immediately.

AN OLD PITTSBURG CONDUCTOR KILLED.

News of the death by accident of Thomas R. Frye, of Crestline, was received at Supt. C. D. Law's office this morning. Wednesday afternoon Mr. Frye was walking on the Pittsburg tracks en route to his home east of the city, and while crossing a bridge near the cemetery an eastbound "light" engine struck him, fracturing his skull and bruising his body in a horrible manner. It is believed that one of his feet was fastened in the ties, holding him so securely that he could not get out of the way of the engine. He was taken home and remained unconscious until noon yesterday, when he died. Mr. Frye was sixty-seven years old. He was for a number of years a passenger conductor on the Pittsburg road, but retired some time ago on account of old age. The funeral will take place at Crestline tomorrow.

WANTS A BONUS.

A committee of business men from Wabash, Ind., headed by the mayor of that city, visited President Ingalls, of the Big Four, at Cincinnati, yesterday, and made overtures to him to build the new Big Four railroad shops at Wabash. President Ingalls replied that if Wabash would give the Big Four fifty acres of ground and $50,000 and would give natural gas at a lower price, it would probably secure them. The shops will cost $200,000. Other cities competing for them are Anderson, Marion and Greensburg. The Wabash committee will report to the home authorities.

NICKEL PLATE BRAKEMAN HURT.

E E Schultz, a Nickel Plate brakeman, who resides in Bellevue, and runs between that city and Fort Wayne, had the fingers of his left hand crushed yesterday morning while making a coupling at Leipsic Junction, Ohio. He was taken to his home, where the first and second fingers were amputated at the second joint. The unfortunate man is married and has worked on this end of the Nickel Plate only a few months.

BRIEF MENTION.

J. F. Peiper, the Wabash machinist, is still too ill to work.

Nickel Plate Brakeman D. Wyman is taking a few days' rest

H. F Koopman, boilermaker at the Wabash shops, is sick and off duty.

Train dispatchers complain today of the poor manner in which their wires work.

Jap Edsall, of the electric light works, is off duty today on account of sickness.

Engineer Tony Kelker is still unable to work, though his injured shoulder is improving rapidly.

James Melcher, of Buffalo, has taken a position in the electric light works. He is a machinist.

This morning the American Academy of Railway Surgeons commenced its first convention in Chicago.

Charles Cole, general freight agent of the Pennsylvania company, passed through this city on the limited last night.

The metre department of the electric light works has been transferred from the main shop to the new laboratory building.

General Manager R. T. McDonald, of the Electric Light company, left on the Pennsylvania limited last night for New York

Charles Bray, of Youngstown, Ohio, is in the city looking for machinery for a new tin plate plant to be erected at Youngstown.

C. W. Henderson, clerk in Superintendent C. D. Law's office, has gone to Columbus, Ind., to attend the state convention of the Y. M. C. A.

A. Sloop and family, seven in number, left on the Wabash train this morning for Cornelius, Oregon, where they expect to reside in the future.

Pittsburg Conductor Owen Owens is at Prospect, Ohio, attending the funeral of his nephew, the late Brakeman Bonner, who was killed at Liverpool, Ind., a few days ago.

Frank Scheid has resigned his position in the Pittsburg shops. Mr. Scheid has worked for several years for the company. In fact he served an apprenticeship in the machine shop.

This month the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton will, as an experiment, sell tickets from points quite a distance to Saturday matinees at Cincinnati, with a view of continuing the custom should it prove profitable.

Frank Frarry, machinist in the Wabash shops, received a telegram this morning, informing him of the death of his brother-in-law in Michigan. Mr. and Mrs Frarry will leave tonight for that state to attend the funeral.

Tomorrow the following manufacturing establishments will pay their employes: Bass Foundry and Machine works, Kerr Murray works, Western Cas Construction company, Fort Wayne Iron works and the Indiana Machine works

This evening George Rhinesmith, shipping clerk for Rhinesmith & Simonson, will leave for San Jose, Cal., where his daughter, Mrs. Ray Lomes, resides. He will remain there until spring. Mr. Lomes is the western representative of the S. F. Bower Co He also raises fruit and is the owner of a fine farm.

S. F. Bowser, the oil tank man, is attending the Y. M. C. A. convention at Columbus, Ind. Agent C. H. Newton, of the Wabash, expected to attend the convention, and left home yesterday morning with his valise with that intention, but he found so much business that needed his attention that he abandoned the trip, and is attending to freight affairs as usual today.

General Manager Hays and General Passenger Agent Crane, of the Wabash lines, have returned from New York.

Engineer George Moore, of the Nickel Plate, who was severely burned by gas three weeks ago, reported for duty yesterday.

C S Bradley, formerly electrician for the Electric Light company, is in the city on a visit. Mr. Bradley's home is in New York.

Conductor V. R and Brakeman J. J. Davis have resumed their respective positions on the Nickel Plate, after several days' absence.

The report that the Pennsylvania Railroad company declared an unearned dividend is emphatically denied by one of its officers. The officer says the Pennsylvania has never declared a dividend which had not been earned.

General Passenger Agent Fee, of the Northern Pacific, has offered cash prizes for the best copy or design of advertisement for magazines The first prize is $100, second $60 third $40. Only ticket agents are allowed to compete.

Nickel Plate engine 27 has just been turned out of the Stony Island shops and will do service between this city and Bellevue, on the local, taking the place of No. 15, which will be given a through freight run, with Engineer Shaver at the throttle

Capt J. M Phillips, who resigned as superintendent of the Kentucky Union to go with the Santa Fe, was given a banquet on Monday night at Lexington, Ky, which was largely attended. Mr. Phillips was for years a passenger conductor on the Jeffersonville, Madison and Indianapolis.

Benjamin F McKeen, who has been fuel and tie purchasing agent of the Vandalia, has resigned, to take effect when his successor is appointed, who will be a man from the Chicago division of the Pennsylvania lines. He has not been well for some months, and has for some time contemplated such action.

Julius A. Henry, a riveter in the employ of the Pennsylvania company, met with a painful and shocking accident yesterday morning. The head of a rivet struck his right eyeball and nearly forced it from the socket. Dr. Wheelock attended the unfortunate man and found that the eyeball had been split completely in two pieces.

A prominent railroad official says it seems to him that the railroad era of this country might be divided into two periods—the first when the roads were small and could be managed economically, but were not, because they were rich; the second when they are in pressing need of every cent that can be saved, but are so big that it is impossible to watch the leaks.

W. H. Kerran, of the Fort Wayne Furniture company, is making a tour of the western states and is meeting with success in selling church furniture. Yesterday he sent in two orders which will keep the cabinetmakers busy for some time. Yesterday the company shipped the furniture for a church at Palmyra, Wis., and tomorrow will ship the seats for two churches at Ackley, Iowa

The general manager of a prominent railroad remarked, when conversing on the pass question: "I shall not curtail my passes, as I think that I am a better judge as to who is entitled to a pass than any committee any railroad meeting may select. If I can see that by giving a pass to a shipper I can get his good will and secure some good shipments over our line and its connections I shall not hesitate to issue the pass, and I think my competitors, despite their protests against issuing passes, will do the same thing But few general managers will give a pass where it is not for the interest of the road to do so, regardless of association agreements."

The Modern Beauty.

Thrives on good food and sunshine, with plenty of exercise in the open air. Her form glows with health and her face blooms with its beauty. If her system needs the cleansing action of a laxative remedy, she uses the gentle and pleasant liquid laxative, Syrup of Figs.

The Coming State.

When the present territory of Utah enters the union of states, it will do so with a population of about 200,000 souls and a climate unsurpassed in the wide world. It will be richer in agricultural resources than any other state. It has within its borders nearly all of the known minerals and metals—gold, silver, copper, iron, tin, etc, etc—in abundant quantities. It has, best of all, a health giving climate, always temperate in summer and in winter. It has hot sulphur springs and is in fact, one large sanitarium. Utah is the ideal place to build a home in which to spend the balance of your days, surrounded by farm and orchard which guarantee all the necessities and most of the comforts of life. There are millions of homes now awaiting settlement. Send to J. H. Bennett, Salt Lake City, for a copy of 'Utah's Resources." It will pay you to post yourself on the merits of the "coming state" which has been aptly termed "The Promised Land." 6-eod-d & w

Better Every Year.

Time was when the "glorious climate o' California" did not attract tourists. But year after year the tide of travel sets in stronger and stronger every fall and winter toward this favored region. There is no climate like it on this continent for a winter resort, and the usual fine service on the Union Pacific system has this season been brought to a degree of perfection which leaves nothing to be desired.

a wave, and then the quiver and spring as she is tossed upward again? Oh, if our souls could transmigrate I'd be a seamew above all birds that fly! But I keep you, admiral. Adieu"

The old sailor was too transported with sympathy to say a word. He could only shake her broad muscular hand. She was half way down the garden path before she heard him calling her and saw his grizzled head and weather stained face looking out from behind the curtains.

"You may put me down for the platform," he cried and vanished abashed behind the curtain of his Times, where his wife found him at lunchtime.

"I hear that you have had quite a long chat with Mrs. Westmacott," said she.

"Yes, and I think that she is one of the most sensible women that I ever knew."

"Except on the woman's rights question, of course"

"Oh, I don't know. She has a good deal to say for herself on that also. In fact, mother, I have taken a platform ticket for her meeting."

There is a new smile of triumph on the speaking features of the gentlemanly girl There is a new jauntiness in her walk There is a new cane in her hand. It is her latest, best loved acquisition. She has been rolling her umbrella into a rod of tiny dimensions for a long time past, but now at last she has come out with a cane proper and not with any weak-minded, feminine substitute for one.

A very pleasant surprise party was given Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Emma Meyer, on Douglas avenue, in honor of her birthday anniversary Card games were played until 12 o'clock, when luncheon was served, after which various games were played until a late hour, when the guests departed. Those present were: Misses Madge Michael, Eda Meyer, Tillie Gerke, Minnie Nestel, Lena Bleke and Emma Meyer, Messrs. Chas. Pape, Gottlieb Strieder, Henry Rippe, Ed Scheuman, Christ. Borgman and Henry Bradtmueller.

Women exhibit most admirable inventive powers when they are obliged to find a new way to earn a living and wish it to be one of refinement and pleasure as well as profit The latest profession originated with Miss Shippen, of Philadelphia, who is an "entertainer of young persons and children" and a sort of conductor, as it were, of their parties. Her aim is to direct the amusements of the little ones according to their ages and tastes and to inform herself on the subject. She consults with the parents a few days before the party is to be given, and discusses all the details of menu, decorations and games. She arrives at the house a few hours before the time to see that everything is in readiness, and when they are all assembled she entertains them, interests them in games, both old and new, some of which she has invented, and through these teaches them a bit of German and French. While they are enjoying a game to the fullest she sits down to the piano and plays a waltz and they all begin to dance, so they are sure not to tire of any one thing. The key to her method is to make each child as happy as possible and modesty often puzzle their mothers and baffle the physician. They withhold what ought to be told. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saves young girls from the dangers of organic disturbance. It relieves suppression, retention, or irregularity of menses. Nature has provided a time for purification. If the channels are obstructed, the entire system is poisoned and misery comes. What will cure the mother will cure the daughter—their organism is the same.

AN OKLAHOMA TRAGEDY.

A School Teacher Kills a Farmer in Cold Blooded Style.

Prof E. T. Hand, principal of the Kildare public schools, shot and killed George F. Rohr, formerly mayor of Arkansas City, the other morning in a quarrel over a farm. Rohr commenced plowing on the claim that both he and Hand claimed, and Hand ordered him off and shot him four times with a rifle. Hand started at once to Newkirk to give himself up to the officers and became crazy and screamed at the top of his voice all the way to Newkirk and after he was locked up. He told the officers what he had done and asked them to look him up. At the same time he was shouting and screaming as loud as he could.

DR. YOUNGE'S
Medical and Surgical Institute.

Our readers should bear in mind that Dr J. W. Younge is at his office in this city Thursdays, Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays, of each week. This affords an excellent opportunity for the citizens of this city and county to consult this eminent specialist close to their homes. He has performed many marvelous and seemingly miraculous cures of prominent people all over this country. Dr Younge stands in the foremost rank of his chosen profession, and is highly esteemed by all of our best citizens He is considered a reliable, trustworthy and honorable physician, well worthy the large and lucrative practice he has had for many years A number of our best citizens have been cured of long standing chronic diseases, by him, among whom are Wm. E Labby, J. W. Lecklin, Samuel G. Kumfer, L W. Noble, Martin Noozle, Edward Reardon, P. G. Silliman, D P Augustine, Milton Avery, Fred S. Bothner, and hundreds of others There is no physician in this state that treats as many cases of chronic and private diseases as does Dr Younge, or that has as good success He has been located in this city nearly twenty years, during which time he has had the largest and most successful practice in the state. Dr. Younge has examined and prescribed for two thousand, three hundred and sixty-seven patients since the first day of last January, and has sent medicine to three hundred and forty-six patients residing in seven different states. The fact that today he is more widely recommended by grateful people whom he has cured in every walk of life, than any other specialist in the United States, is not astonishing. Dr. Younge makes people well and that is the secret of his great success. His institute is located at the corner of Calhoun and Lewis streets, opposite Library Hall. Office days, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Kilian Baker's Saw Mill Destroyed by Flames—Will be Rebuilt Immediately.

This morning at 5:30 an alarm tapped from box 1-2-1 and called the fire department to East Superior street, where Kilian Baker's saw mile, just north of the Nickel Plate and east of the artificial gas works, was on fire. When the department arrived the mill was a mass of flames and the firemen confined their efforts to saving the machinery and surrounding property. The saw mill was totally destroyed and the machinery slightly injured, but all the logs and lumber in the mill yard was saved.

The fire started at some point in the engine and boiler room and there are two theories as to the cause. One is that a spark from the furnace ignited the dry timber in the building and the other is that it is the work of an incendiary. In support of the latter theory it is stated that early this morning a switchman on the Nickel Plate railway saw a man walking about the sawmill pouring, as he supposed, coal oil on the material scattered about the place. He yelled fire and frightened the fellow away. Not much credence, however, is placed in this story.

A SENTINEL reporter saw Mr. Baker at his East Main street home this morning and learned that the loss was about $1,000, without any insurance. He stated that the mill would be rebuilt immediately.

INTO A STREET CAR.

Herbert Buck Meets With a Painful Accident.

Herbert Buck, driver of a United express wagon, met with a serious accident this morning. He was driving out of the alley opposite the Cathedral on Calhoun street, just as belt line street car No. 78 came along. The car struck the express wagon and knocked Buck against one of the standards in the top of the wagon. He was rendered unconscious and was taken to the express office, where Dr. Ross examined him. Later he was conveyed to his home, No. 269 West Jefferson street, in an ambulance wagon. The injuries, while painful, are not considered dangerous.

Philosophy For a Bill Collector.

A collector of unpaid bills has a hard time of it, but one met a philosophical debtor recently who convinced him of some astounding facts. The collector said that he had been dunning the said philosophical debtor for about six months and was getting tired. It was always "come around tomorrow" or "haven't got it now."

"Say," he said when he made his last trip, "are you ever going to pay this bill?"

"Why, yes, some day," the philosopher replied. "But, look here, young man, I want to show you a thing or two. How many bills have you got in that pack?"

"About 49," said the collector.

"How long does it take you to visit all these people?" the philosopher inquired.

"About a day."

"What if all paid up promptly?"

"Why, that would be great."

"Would it? What would you do for a living if all these debtors paid up in one day?"

The collector looked blank for a moment.

"Great Jerusalem! I'd be out of a job."

"Well, then, don't be so anxious to collect every cent due your people. One bill a day is enough. As for me, come around some time next week, and I may do something for you." And the philosopher sailed away.—Syracuse Post.

FUNERAL EXERCISES

In Memory of the Late Czar of Russia.

President and Mrs. Cleveland and the Cabinet Officers and Ladies Attend.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—Impressive ceremonies were held at the Russian legation here today in memory of Czar Alexander III, whose remains now lie in state at Moscow, soon to be buried in the imperial tomb of the czars. President Cleveland and the entire cabinet, except Postmaster General Bissel, attended, accompanied by Mrs. Cleveland and the cabinet ladies. The foreign ambassadors and ministers with their extensive suites, wearing their rich official and court dress, were present in a body, lending brilliant color to the solemn occasion. Ambassador Bayard and ex-Secretary of State Foster were also there. As no Greek church exists in Washington the parlors of the legation were for the time being transferred into a place of worship, with an altar for the celebration of mass and ritual of the Greek faith. The services began at 2 o'clock this morning when mass was celebrated by Bishop Nicolai, of the Russian Greek church, assisted by a Greek monk and two attendants. These services, lasting until 10, were in private, being attended only by Prince Cantacuzene, the Russian minister, his daughter and the officials of the Russian legation. At 10 o'clock the chants and prayers for the repose of the czar's soul began in the presence of the president, members of the cabinet and diplomatic corps. As each participant in the ceremony arrived he was given a wax candle to bear throughout the service. Prince Cantacuzene met President and Mrs. Cleveland at the doorway and escorted them to places immediately alongside the altar. The president and his wife each carried a candle, as did Secretary Gresham and all others present. As the chanting began the candles were lighted, lending a weird and picturesque aspect to the scene. The bishop was robed in the vestments of his office, his dress being set with mosaics, rubies and emeralds, woven into jeweled embroideries, and his red velvet surplice being wound with a white satin stole, embroidered with gold and small jewels. The Greek monk was robed in a lengthy flowing black gown, falling from the top of a high head dress, from which appeared the long and shaggy bearded face of a typical Cossack of Romance. The bishop and his attendants chanted the service alternately, the acolytes swinging the censer until the air was misty with incense. The service lasted half an hour, the candles being extinguished as the chants closed, after which the Prince Cantacuzene escorted President and Mrs. Cleveland to the door and the other guests withdrew.

MISSIONARIES FLEEING.

Driven Out of Manchuria by the Approach of the Japs.

The Chinese Army Retreats to the Mountains, Where the Soldiers Suffer From Cold.

LONDON, Nov. 9—A dispatch from Shanghai says that all the missionaries of the Presbyterian church of Ireland who have been working in Manchuria, have left the interior and have arrived in safety at New Chwang. Another dispatch from Shanghai says that the Japanese have undoubtedly captured Talien Wan, a short distance south of Port Arthur. The Chinese fleet is reported to have arrived at Wei-Hai-Wei.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 9—The Chinese army of the north has retreated to the mountains, where the soldiers are reported to be starving and suffering severely from cold and exposure. The Japanese army is reported to be encamped at Feng Wheng Cheng. The Japanese are pursuing some 15,000 Chinese, mostly raw recruits. Port Arthur is not expected to make a determined stand against the Japanese. Admiral Sir E. Freemantle, in command of the British fleet, considers that Port Arthur will probably be the scene of the last engagement of any importance between the Chinese and Japanese.

EIGHTEEN ROUNDS.

Zocker Knocked Out by Jimmy Owens at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 9.—Jimmy Owens, of San Francisco, and Fred Zocker, of this city, fought eighteen rounds on an island in the Mississippi river near here last night, resulting in a knock out for the former. Zocker makes things from the start and during the first six rounds had things pretty much his own way. In the ninth Owens floored Zocker, scoring the first knock down. The end came in the eighteenth when Zocker was knocked down three times.

POLITICIAN IS SUED.

Ole Brown Habis Suffers Damages for Breach of Promise.

PORTLAND, Ind., Nov. 9—A sensation was produced here yesterday by the filing of a suit by Miss Ola Brown against Frank Gimmill, claiming $5,000 damages for breach of promise and seduction. Mr. Gimmill is one of the wealthiest men in this county and a prominent democratic politician.

ONE DAY ENOUGH FOR HIM.

A Newly Elected Official in Indiana Disgusted With His Place.

VALPARAISO, Ind., Nov. 9—Late yesterday afternoon the new County Surveyor took office. He had been recently appointed to help locate new bridges. He was to be hired that this morning he rushed to the auditor's office as soon as it was open and resigned his office.

TEXAS SAFE.

Goes Democratic by Over 40,000.

The Congressional Ticket is Split and Divided Between the Parties—Tennessee in Doubt.

GALVESTON, Texas, Nov. 9—From the returns received here it is safe to state that the state democratic ticket is safely elected by 40,000 plurality. Culberson, candidate for governor, running about 10 per cent. behind his ticket because of his free silver views, which many democrats rebuked. The congressional delegation will not be solidly democratic. Nugen, (republican) in the Twelfth district, is elected by 1,000 plurality. In the Sixth, Kearby (pop) is so close to Abbott (dem) that the official returns will be necessary to determine the result. The same condition exists in the Thirteenth, where Gilleland (pop) has the lead of three democrats on a split ticket, and in the Seventh, where Barker (pop) is slightly ahead of Pendleton (dem) as far as counted. The cumbersome ballot law in cities and laziness in rural precincts makes the official count in doubtful districts impossible to get at before tomorrow.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 9—The vote for governor is very close between Turney, (dem) and Evans, (rep.) and the official returns will be necessary to determine the result. The indications point to Evans' election.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 9—The results of Tuesday's election bearing upon the next Missouri legislature, as obtained from the most reliable unofficial information, show that of the thirty-four senators, eighteen will be democrats and sixteen republicans, this estimate conceding the defeat of the Twenty-fifth district democrat, which is not yet certain. The house will stand: Democrats, 62; republicans, 76; populist, 2. These figures can hardly be changed by official canvasses. In the Second district the elected republican senator has been found to be disqualified. His democratic opponent refuses to take the seat though law allows him to and a new election will be held.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Advices still continue to come to Chairman Babcock of the republican congressional committee. This morning Chairman Dixey, of Minnesota, telegraphed that the republicans would send a solid delegation to congress. This announcement increases Chairman Babcock's figures of the republicans in the next house to 256. Mr. Dixey said that the republicans would have 100 majority in the state legislature and that Nelson's majority for governor is between 50,000 and 60,000. Chairman Charles Train, of Utah, wires that Cannon (rep.) is elected to congress and that, unless the republicans are counted out, they will control the constitutional convention. Chairman T. B. Cornwall, of California, says that the republicans have elected six congressmen from that state and that Maguire is the only democrat elected. The republicans will control both branches of the legislature, but Estee is defeated by about 1,500.

LOCAL NEWS.

Dr. Porter reports Webber as getting along nicely.

Officer Coling is ill and will not be on duty this evening.

George E. Fleming returned to Washington, D. C., this morning. He came home to vote.

Edward Clausmeier will succeed himself as sheriff and Harry Metzger will succeed Daniel Souder as county clerk next Friday. Clarence Edsall succeeds Andrew Ginting as auditor one week from tomorrow. The other county officers elect hold over until next year.

The Greek and Roman Churches.

Pope Leo says that, even though the patriarch of Armenia would not attend the conference to which his holiness summoned delegates of the Greek and Roman churches, he will not therefore cease from his efforts to reunite these two communions as they were in the old days of the Christian faith. The split began as far back as the year 535, when the Roman church adopted the dogma that the Holy Ghost proceeded from the Son as well as from the Father. The bishops of Constantinople refused to swallow this doctrine and declared that the Holy Spirit came only from the Father through the Son as medium. It does not seem, so long as the Christians themselves have the Holy Spirit, as though there need be any quarrel about who or it comes from, yet this was made the basis of separation and persecutions of quarrelling between the Greek and Roman churches. In these quarrels about where the Holy Spirit came from the Holy Spirit itself was quite lost, and a spirit of burning enmity and bigotry took its place, as is apt to happen in theological quarrels. Now evidently Pope Leo thinks it is time for both churches to infuse into them old-time something of the Holy Spirit practically. Political ambitions which now have no sway helped to separate the two branches. It is not likely there can be any union, though since theological subtleties have taken the place of the former political ones. The patriarch of Constantinople would not be likely ever to bring himself to the point of acknowledging the authority of the pope of Rome. The Greek church in Russia permits the marriage of priests, provided they take wives before they take orders. But it draws the line at second marriages for priests and fourth marriages for laymen.

IMPORTANT CHANGES

Will be Made by the Incoming Indiana Legislature.

All Boards of State Institutions to be Non-Partisan—Redistricting the State.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov 9—The Indiana republicans are preparing to gather all the fruit that the falling of the democratic tree has brought to the ground, and the first move will be made through their majority in the legislature. In 1883 a democratic legislature took from a republican governor the selection of the benevolent reformatory and penal boards of the state and vested that power in itself. In the last session of that body this power was voluntarily surrendered and the patronage was restored to the governor. At a meeting of local republican leaders yesterday it was determined to take the patronage from the governor again, rent it in the legislature or in an appointing board of three persons and make all the state boards nonpartisan, that is, appoint two republicans and one democrat on each. The majority is strong enough in each house to carry through any party measure and the proposed change will no doubt be effected.

At the same meeting it was proposed to reapportion the state for congressional and legislative purposes, so as to secure the legislature for the republicans two years hence and get the United States senator to be elected at that time. The constitution provides for a reapportionment of the state every six years and such a measure could not be legally passed till 1897. It is proposed therefore to amend the present law, but to make the changes so marked that there will be a practical republican gerrymander born of the democratic measure. The republicans believe that they will be within the letter of the constitution if they amend the present law, though but little will be left of it but the title.

Considerable interest is being felt by the leaders of both parties in the showing that populists will make when the official vote is known. The democrats do not believe that the republican vote has been increased, but that theirs has been diminished either by stay-at-homes or by defection to the populists. The latter's committee, on meager returns, claim that their vote will reach 85,000, but the old party leaders regard this estimate as absurd, as it would be an increase of 43,000 over two years ago. The populists, however, are conceded to have hurt the democrats, and it is believed that democratic lors in Daviess, Sullivan, Clay and other counties was populist gain. In all of these the populists increased their vote very materially. The vote in this county for the populists is but five to the precinct, and the total here will not be over 1,200. The prohibition vote is but four to the precinct.

Although the returns from the election are not yet tabulated, there are a half-dozen contests for places going on in the legislature, and every one who has an axe to grind is hunting a grindstone. The candidates for speaker of the house are J. C. Adams and W. H. Leedy.

Mr. Adams is advocated by Harry S. New, Roscoe O. Hawkins, Harry C. Adams, and what is known in republican circles as "the Denison hotel politicians." The Columbia club is also supporting Mr. Adams. It is asserted by his opponents that Mr Adam's support is not due so much for love of him as to the desire of his supporters to get their friends into the important places and on the important committees.

Mr. Leedy is advocated by the Odd Fellows, of which order he was grand patriarch for a number of years, and loudly do his lodge help of a large number of politicians and ward workers, many of whom want places that will be at his disposal. At some places the fight has become so acrimonious that there is talk of splitting Clemens Vonnegut, jr., as a compromise candidate.

BRILLIANT METEOR

Which Illuminated the Skies of New Jersey.

DOVER, N. J., Nov. 9—Jerry Butler, of Xenville, was leaving his barn about 11:20 o'clock last night when the skies were suddenly illuminated by a blinding flash. For an instant he was dazed, then he realized that an unusually brilliant meteor had caused the flash. The seeming explosion was accompanied by a trail of bright, greenish hued light that seemed to linger in the heavens for a long time after the shooting star had passed out of sight. The spectacle was followed fully a minute later by a distinct, yet muffled, explosion. People at New Brunswick were awakened about 12 o'clock by a heavy, rumbling explosion, followed about a half minute later by a bright flash of light, which illuminated the sky in a southwesterly direction. The general belief was that a meteor exploded. This belief was strengthened by the discovery of a jagged hole in the ground in the woodland attached to the Forrachu property, near the Raritan River railroad between this city and Milltown. The same noise was heard and a similar flash of light seen at Metuchen, Metuchen and other places.

NO FIGHTS IN JACKSONVILLE.

Ordinance Prohibiting Them Repealed by the City Council.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 9—Among the sporting men of Jacksonville there is much surprise and more indignation at the action of the city council in repealing the municipal ordinance prohibiting glove contests. The ordinance was passed in December last, was vetoed by the mayor and then passed over his veto. Its object was to allow the Corbett-Mitchell fight to come off here, and thus to thwart Governor Mitchell in his determination to stop it.

WEDDED IN JAIL.

An Indicted Embezzler Married to a Texas Girl.

A Romantic Incident Which Occurred in the County Jail at Cleveland, Ohio.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 9—Today an altar was erected in Sheriff Ryan's private office at the county jail and a prisoner indicted for embezzlement was married to a fair young girl from Houston, Tex.

The prisoner is James S. Bray, the twenty four-year-old son of an English army officer of high rank. He came to this country several years ago, locating for a time in Texas. Some time ago he came to Cleveland and fitted up luxurious bachelor apartments, purchasing an elegant piano on the installment plan. After paying a small amount on the instrument he sold it and was arrested and indicted for embezzlement.

The romantic end of the story came to the surface shortly after, when Miss Jennie Doty, of the Central Friendly Inn, and other Christian workers here received communications from Miss Hirsee Hugo, of Houston, Texas. She said the arrest of Bray spoiled their marriage, but the event must occur, and unless the Cleveland ladies furnished the transportation she would walk to Cleveland.

Last Friday she arrived in the city. She did not walk and it is presumed the ladies of the W. C. T. U. furnished her railroad fare. The wedding day was soon set. The bride is very handsome.

BANK ROBBED.

The Burglars Secure Only $100 in Silver.

While the Safe Containing $25,000 in the Vault Was Not Touched.

CELINA, Ohio, Nov. 9—Burglars broke into the First National bank here last night and got away with about $100 in silver. The front doors were opened by the use of crowbars and the locks of the vaults were blown off with dynamite. The thieves then stole two rigs to make their escape sure. One of the rigs was found at Elyria this morning. Investigation revealed the fact that the vaults had been opened, but that the safe, which contained $25,000, had not been touched. Upon a wooden tray in the vault was about $400 in silver. This alone was taken. The small fortune lying almost within reach of the thieves could not be secured.

ANOTHER ROBBERY.

LARNED, Wyo., Nov. 9—Three masked men entered E. F. Enderly's store at Thompsonia, covered the proprietor with guns, and compelled him to give them $1,360 from the safe. Mr. Enderly and others pursued the robbers and shot one, who was recognized as Jake Snyder. He will die. The others escaped with most of the plunder.

Kid Thompson.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 9—Kid Thompson and a man named Hopper have been brought from the Roosen mountains under guard. The former is supposed to be a Rosene train robber and the latter is probably the same. He made a determined fight to avoid arrest. The arrest was made by cowboys.

Embezzler Caught.

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 9—Geo. W. Boggs, ex-city treasurer, has been arrested on a warrant sworn by the county attorney, charging embezzlement of $21,150, the sum deposited by him in the suspended savings bank. Boggs immediately gave bail.

Shot and Killed.

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Col., Nov. 9.—S. M. Cooley, a ranchman, shot and killed Patrick Bohn, another ranchman, four miles from Cardiff, on Four Mile Creek, yesterday. They quarreled over the ownership of some cattle.

Fifteen tramps enjoyed the hospitality of the police station last night.

For 18 years Czar Alexander has reigned, and in all that time, as has been said, his life has not been safe for a single day. No wonder he was attacked with lingering, wasting nervous. Worry deranges the secretions of the body; the suppressed poison attacks the lungs, kidneys or joints. Sometimes the heart gets out of order and causes cancer and again heart trouble. Czar Alexander's life has been worried to death. A thoroughly honest, conscientious man, hunted and well disposed to sides, whose only aim was to do just the best thing for the great Russian people, he has never quite managed to carry measures to the exact wrong thing, so far as his own safety was concerned. So far as other matters were concerned, when Alexander III's life history comes to be summed up, it will be said that he preserved the peace of Europe during his reign through sheer force of character. We of this republic must not forget after that, like the Cæsars, he was always the warm and considerate friend of the United States.

Oklahoma, our latest territory, has now a population of 272,033. That is a little less than a thirteenth of the population of the United States. There are six states already in the Union with fewer people than this. They are Delaware, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, North Dakota and Wyoming.

THE OFFICIAL COUNT

Shows the Election of the Entire Democratic County Ticket.

The Canvassing Board's Returns on Tuesday's Election for State, District, County and Township Offices.

The county canvassing board, which met yesterday morning for the purpose of making an official count of the votes cast for state, district and county officers at the election last Tuesday, did not complete their labors until 2 o'clock this morning, the task being a long and tedious one. Considerable delay was occasioned by the mistakes made by inspectors and judges on election boards, in several instances the returns not having been correctly made up, and the parties were compelled to return home, in some instances to distant parts of the county, to make corrections. Some of the election officers neglected to bring their papers in, others had them improperly signed and this delayed the count. Mr. Hindle had to drive home eighteen miles to get his election certificates properly certified and it was after midnight when the returns from Monroe township were complete.

Chas. H. Worden was the chairman of the board and Patrick Ryan and Louis Jeequel served as reading clerks to Clerk Souder and Deputy Clerk Frank Belot. The footings were made for the board by experts, Otto Herlet and Charles Orr, representing the democratic and republican parties.

Two years ago Allen county returned a democratic plurality of 1,500. The result of the official count by the board showed a big decrease, the plurality on the state ticket being reduced to 1,183 and that on the county to 1,168 for the highest candidate to 191 for the lowest on the democratic county ticket, all of whom were elected. The result of the official canvass was as follows.

For Secretary of State—William R. Myers, (dem.) 8,231; William D. Owen, (rep.) 6,826; Taylor, (pro.) 125; Robinson, (pro.) 672. Myers' plurality, 1,405.

For Congress—McNagny, 8,951; Leighty, 6,937; James E. Graham, 116; Freeman Kelley, 734. McNagny's plurality, 1,117.

For State Senator—Ellison, 7,848, White, 6,968; Ono, 76; Miller, 721. Ellison's plurality, 878.

For Representatives—Bobilia, 7,935; Keil, 7,941; Dalman, 7,912; McGeogan, 6,903; Rogers, 6,776, Greenawalt, 6,877; Fowler, 107; English, 106; Engle, 105; Rhine, 671; Orr, 691; McCarthy, 656. Democratic plurality, 1,100.

For Judge Superior Court—Dawson, 8,065; Harper, 6,985. Dawson's plurality, 1,080.

For Judge Circuit Court—O'Rourke, 8,050; Robertson, 1,100. O'Rourke's plurality, 858.

For Prosecutor—Doughman, 7,908; Leonard, 6,812. Doughman's plurality, 956.

For Clerk—Metzger, 7,867; Cook, 7,013; Schroeder, 101; Haines, 691. Metzger's plurality, 850.

For Auditor—Edsall, 7,894; Pettit, 7,041; Cromwell, 104; Satterthe, 880. Edsall's plurality, 853.

For Recorder—Reichelderfer, 7,835, Soest, 6,953; Twining, 109; Tiernan, 592. Reichelderfer's plurality, 935.

For Treasurer—Hunter, 7,788; Dozer, 7,108; Watterson, 101; Rech, 652. Hunter's plurality, 680.

For Sheriff—Clausmeier, 7,957; Langtry, 7,032; Herrick, 105; Leasure, 562. Clausmeier's plurality, 925.

For Coroner—Harrod, 7,727, Doerling, 6,956; Ferguson, 116; Miller, 639. Harrod's plurality, 771.

For Surveyor—Brenstratter, 8,033; Merchant, 6,955; Eward, 110. Brenstratter's plurality, 1,168.

For Commissioner—First District—Baker, 7,811, Hockemeyer, 6,970, Whittern, 99; Sorgen, 614. Baker's plurality, 974.

For Commissioner, Second District—Ferguson, 7,817; Baird, 6,929; Parker, 113; Thomas, 612. Ferguson's plurality, 918.

For Commissioner, Third District—Siellhorn, 7,650; Wilson, 7,139; Rauch, 99, Rapp, 646. Stellhorn's plurality, 491.

WAYNE TOWNSHIP.

The official vote of Wayne township in which Fort Wayne is situated, on the township ticket, showing the election of all the democratic candidates was as follows:

For Trustee—Schmelzer (dem.), 4,216, Gibson (rep.), 4,063, Colles (pro.) 551.

For Assessor—Walsh (dem.), 1,237; Pyke (rep.), 3,912, Heiber (pro.), 124.

For Justice of the Peace—France (dem.) 1,295; Bohen (dem.) 1,256, Husar (dem.), 1,263, Tansey (dem.), 1,222; Soliday (rep.), 3,965, Scarlet (rep.), 3,958, Tyler (rep.), 3,880, Straus (rep.), 1,030, Meloish (pro.), 404, Meldrich (pro.), 176, Fenin (pro.), 177; Aldrich (pro.), 179.

For Constable—Lindley (dem.), 1,251; Rabbits (dem.), 1,225, Johnson (dem.), 1,216, Reilly (dem.), 1,200, Gindel-penger (rep.), 3,929, Bagle (rep.), 3,919, Hitchcock (rep.), 3,886, Richards (pro.), 195; Ferguson (pro.), 198; Brumbill (pro.), 198, Lebrock (pro.), 198.

CONGRESSIONAL SETTLED.

Returns in this congressional district show the election of J. D. Leighty, the republican candidate for congress. The following figures are [illegible] revised to be very nearly official, the returns of the counties being precisely as

CONGRESS VOTE.

The republican plurality at the late election in this state was the largest plurality of any election since Indiana was a state. At the first presidential election for Adams, Jackson and Clay in 1824, Jackson's plurality over Clay was 2,028. It is interesting to give all of the figures in this election. For Adams there were 4,005 votes, for Jackson, 7,848; for Clay, 5,915. In 1828 Jackson's plurality over Adams was 1,505. In 1832 Jackson's plurality over Clay was 16,980. In 1836 Harrison's plurality over Van Buren was 8,801. In 1840 Harrison's plurality over Van Buren was 13,647. In 1844 Polk's plurality over Clay was 2,311. In 1848 Cass' plurality over Taylor was 4,136. In 1852 Pierce's plurality over Scott was 11,429. In 1856 Buchanan's plurality over Fremont was 21,226. In 1860 Lincoln's plurality over Douglas 27,731. In 1864 Lincoln's plurality over McClellan was 20,149. In 1868 Grant's plurality over Seymour was 9,568. In 1872 Grant's plurality over Greeley was 22,515. In 1876 Tilden's plurality over Hayes was 5,515. In 1880 Garfield's plurality over Hancock was 6,642. In 1884 Cleveland's plurality over Blaine was 6,527. In 1888 Harrison's plurality over Cleveland was 2,401. In 1892 Cleveland's plurality over Harrison was 7,195.

PETTY THIEVES.

Two Youngsters Charged With Stealing Oats.

Old Man Hoffer Assists Appears in Police Court—After the Liquor Has Molasses.

Thomas Allen, a lad aged fifteen or sixteen, was before the mayor this morning charged with stealing two bushels of oats from John H. Welch. Allen entered a plea of not guilty. He asserted that he met another boy and helped him carry the grain until he learned it was stolen when he left it in his possession. He failed to give the name of the other boy, but Lieutenant Lapp asserts that it was Charlie Swayne, who will be arrested. The lieutenant says that there has been many complaints of petty thieving of late and there is plenty of evidence to prove that both Allen and Swayne entered Welch's place and carried away the oats. Mayor Oakley continued the case until 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

HOFFER AGAIN.

John Hoffer made his 'steenth appearance in mayor's court this morning. He has a habit of accumulating a slight "jag" and then abusing his wife. The fellow was up to his old tricks last night and was arrested by Officer Buechner. Mayor Oakley sent Hoffer to jail for eleven days.

MAKER'S BOND NOT REQUIRED.

Attorney A. H. Bittenger this morning again asked Mayor Oakley to reduce William Hilker's bond from $5,000. Deputy Prosecutor Charles Ryan objected and the mayor declined to change the bond until he was certain Webber was out of danger.

LIQUOR VIOLATIONS.

No arrests have been made for violations of the early closing law, but the mayor and Superintendent Liggett assert that they have evidence that several saloons make a practice of violating this law, but the evidence is not complete enough to secure conviction.

"I am convinced," said his honor, "that several high-toned saloons are violating the law and I may yet be compelled to revoke some of their licenses."

The mayor means business and some saloonkeepers will suffer unless they soon change their tactics.

BLOWN TO PIECES!

Dynamite Explosion at Huntington, Ind.

Two Men Killed, and One Fatally Injured.

John Hartman's Body Scattered in all Directions.

Norton Reifer and John Flynn the Other Victims—Property Damaged.

HUNTINGTON, Ind., Nov 9—[Special]—There was a terrible explosion in this city early this morning, and for several hours the city was in a wild state of excitement.

Hallowed A Kiefer have the contract to build a big sewer in this city, and as there is so much loose sand underneath the first four or two of earth, it is necessary to do most of the excavating by blasting. Dynamite is used to do the blasting.

This morning at 6:40 Norton Kiefer, foreman of the sewer gang, and John Hartman and John Flynn, laborers, were burning 100 pounds of dynamite on First street, near Market. The dynamite came in contact with the fire and a terrific explosion followed, hurling the three men into the air and shaking buildings in all parts of the city. People rushed to the scene and were horrified at the sight. Kiefer was lying unconscious and Flynn was suffering intensely with one leg off and his face and head lacerated almost beyond recognition. Hartman's body was literally torn to pieces. His flesh was scattered about and small pieces were hanging in trees near by. One leg was found projecting from the siding of a building about 100 feet from the scene of explosion. The pieces were collected together, but the mass was unrecognizable. Kiefer was picked up and a start made for his home, but he died before he had been conveyed very far. Flynn was taken to the home of Dr. Scott, who is attending him, but there is no chance of his recovery, as he is suffering fatal internal injuries. An other laborer was crossing the sewer about seventy-five feet away when the explosion occurred with fifty pounds of dynamite in his arms, but was uninjured.

There are many houses on both sides of the street where the accident occurred and dozens of them were damaged more or less. The house occupied by Marion Wilbur, a Chicago and Erie engineer, was lifted several feet from the foundation, and as it dropped back the furniture and everything within was completely wrecked. Mrs. Wilbur, who was alone, miraculously escaped any injury. The house of F. B. M. Windle, adjoining the Wilbur property, was also wrecked but no person was injured in the houses of Hugh McCauley, Chris Allman, Miss Clara Ager and Dr Beaver all the windows were shattered and there was other slight damage.

The shock of the explosion was felt several blocks away and in some other houses window panes were broken. The pecuniary loss is estimated at $1,000.

Work on the sewer has been temporarily suspended and will probably not be resumed until after the funerals of the victims of the explosion.

IMPROVEMENT BONDS.

Some are Now Due and Property Owners are Becoming Delinquent.

There is a misunderstanding as to the payment of street improvement bonds and several property owners are becoming delinquent. Under the old law payment was made only in April each year. The new law, however, provides that where a street improvement is completed before October 1, the first payment of bonds must be made in November. The West Washington street pavement was completed before October 1 and the first payment of these bonds is now due. Many of the property owners do not know this and are becoming delinquent.

Postoffice Closed.

A few days ago Mrs. Josephine Phillips, postmistress at Walleu, this county, closed her office and moved to the city. The matter was reported to the department by Postmaster Rockhill, and yesterday he received advices from Washington that the Walleu office had been discontinued. Patrons of the Walleu office will receive their mail at the Fort Wayne office.

Sick Quarry Claims.

TACOMA, Wash., Nov 9—News from Alaska says that A. Hayward and C. D. Lane, of San Francisco, have purchased twenty of the richest quartz claims in the Silver Bow Basin. The Alaska News, of Juneau, states that only one of the largest mines of that district in the history of that city. It is said that England has sent her ships to the head of the Chilkoot inlet, four hundred miles north of Juneau and near Mount St. Elias. The claim is made as a result of the international boundary survey work, for the purpose of establishing a coaling station there.

TRUSTEE APPOINTED.

Benjamin McQuiston Commissioner Ferguson's Successor.

The News of the Day as Gathered in the Different Courts of the City.

At the meeting this morning of the board of commissioners of Allen county Benjamin McQuiston was appointed trustee of Washington township to fill the unexpired term of Matthew Ferguson, who resigned on account of his election last Tuesday to the office of county commissioner on the democratic ticket. Mr. McQuiston was elected trustee at the election but would not have taken the office until next August, when Mr. Ferguson's term would have expired. Now he will enter upon his duties at once.

Mr. Ferguson will enter upon his duties as county commissioner in two weeks from next Tuesday. He has been the trustee of his township for five years and has discharged his duties in such a way as to have won for himself the opinion of his constituents that he was the best trustee that Washington township ever had. He is magnificently equipped for his duties as county commissioner, as so also Mr. Stellhorn and Mr. Baker, who will be associated with him on the board. The three gentlemen are practical business men, understand thoroughly the wants and needs of the county, and will. THE SENTINEL feels assured, manage the affairs of Allen county in such a way as to be for the best interests of all.

On the night of November 1 several boys committed some depredations on the premises of Mrs. Lydia Oberlin, in Nebraska. Today James Dalton, Albert Hayes, Gustave Zorell, Herman Kallback and John Allway were arrested for the act. The father of Allway settled the damage for that lad. The other boys are having a hearing this afternoon before Justice France.

E. V. Emrick, as attorney for the estate of Dr. G. N. Worley, Appeared before Judge O'Rourke in the circuit court and had Dr. Buhl appointed as guardian of the deceased's son, William Worley.

It is all over. Now let us get down to business and see who can help the most to bring about prosperous and happy times.

Allen county, stand up and receive congratulations. You carried the old dog through once more safely and we believe you elected one of the best tickets we ever had.

Iowa had only carried Delaware. She has gone back on us for the first time for many, many years. We thought we could always count on her in case of emergency.

Japan has the right spirit. Instead of putting their prisoners to death, like the Chinese did the Japanese, they treat them so kindly that the Chinese soldiers say they are served better than they are by their own people and refuse to return home.

A gentleman who has had much to do with Allen county politics says that he firmly believes that if the republicans had not made the personal fight they did during the last two weeks they would have received many more votes for their county ticket. The abusive circulars aggravated the democrats and made them stick closer to party lines.

Mr. Harrison says this is the greatest revelation known in our political history. It is a big one. And yet memory will go back to the election of 1890, when the democrats carried a majority of the congressional delegations of thirty-one states, electing 233 representatives and leaving the republicans eight-eight. But that was one of the revolutions that Mr. Harrison does not care to dwell on. In this day and generation it does not take much to make people change their way of voting.

The new constitutional amendments adopted at the late election in New York will completely rid that state of gambling and betting on horse races. The horsemen over the state have already commenced a loud wail and the gamblers are packing their grips ack for the west. Now, if they had only put an ironclad temperance clause in the constitution that would have broken the backbone of the rum power. New York might then have turned out to be a pretty good state—something like Indiana.

State officers' Terms.

The newly elected state officers will take their offices on the following dates:

William D. Owen, secretary of state, January 17, 1895.

American C. Daily, auditor of state, January 25, 1895.

Tomorrow's Sentinel.

Few prophets during the exciting days of the rebellion would have had the temerity to predict that within thirty years a daughter of Jeff Davis would have become engaged to the grandson of one of his bitterest enemies, an arch abolitionist, and that a distinguished southern general would capture the daughter of the great northern christian, General Grant, and yet not only has all this come to pass, but there are other signal examples of the triumphs of the little archer. Indeed the actual facts are stranger than the most audacious fiction, and in tomorrow's Sentinel we will tell something about these interesting love romances—the courtship and marriage of Winnie Davis and Sellie Grant, the one to a northerner, the son of a noted abolitionist, and the other to a confederate soldier who was on Stonewall Jackson's staff during the war. In the article we will use pictures of the two brides.

In view of the fact that Fort Wayne has a Young Woman's Christian association, which, by the way, is doing a good and grand work, the readers will be interested in an article which we will publish tomorrow giving a description of the new building for the Y. W. C. A. which is being built in Chicago and the work the association is accomplishing there. It has a main home temporarily at 291 Michigan avenue, another at 5713 Kimbark avenue, a home for transients at 267 Jackson boulevard and an employment bureau at 243 Wabash avenue, all of which are to be concentrated in the new building, which is also to be a woman's hotel and boarding house. It will be seven stories high and magnificent in its structure.

A clergyman who is a lover of horse racing and who believes in the stage is somewhat of a rarity in this country, but such a man is he. Dr. Samuel Reynolds Hole, dean of Rochester, an eminent English divine, who is now lecturing in this country. Tomorrow's Sentinel will have an article of interest about this divine, giving his picture and his opinion of horse racing.

Another article will be one on "How to Plough," from J. M. Dexter, a noted agricultural writer. It will be interesting not only to those who are engaged in farming but to many others of our readers.

The name of Germany's new chancellor is one which will attract attention. It is Prince Chlodwig Carl Victor Hohenlohe Schillingsfurst. Despite his seventy-five years, the prince is remarkably vigorous and in full possession of all his mental faculties. With Bismarck, Gladstone and many others he is a proof that this is indeed an era of vigorous old men. With the chancellorship of the empire he also takes that of the kingdom of Prussia, as was the case with Bismarck. Tomorrow's Sentinel will publish the life of the prince and in connection with it use his picture.

Only a few days The Sentinel published a telegram giving an account of the rebellion of the Rajahs in the East Indies and one of the battles which had been fought. Tomorrow's Sentinel will tell something about the Acheen war which will prove instructive to our readers.

Another article will be one giving the life and picture of Chief Naval Constructor Phillip Hichborn of the United States navy, who has been next to the scene of the war between Japan and China to note what the modern ironclad can do in battle.

The sermon of Talmage will be the usual feature of the Saturday's Sentinel as will also be the humorous articles of Bill Nye and Charles B. Lewis Religious reading, fashions, secret society news, wit and humor, and miscellaneous reading of different kinds will make tomorrow's paper an attractive and interesting number to all of our readers.

November Meteors.

There has been found no close relation between the orbits of comets and meteor streams that it is now believed the meteors are fragments of burst comets. When a comet goes astray, it generally widely through space awhile, then bursts, as is supposed. The fragments follow on around the sun in the same course as the comet did. The comet disappears, and the fragments take its place. Being of all sizes, they naturally string out over a great distance and at length present the appearance of a ring of fragments following one another around the sun. The orbit in which they travel sometimes crosses that of the planets. When our earth passes through this string of meteors, those that are near enough to us to touch our atmosphere are ignited and fall to the earth with a reasonably dull thud.

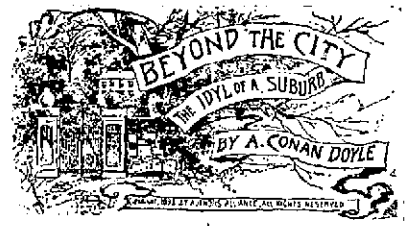
Twice a year the earth passes through meteor rings, once about the 10th of August and again the 12th of November. It is well to be on the lookout for a night or two before and after these dates if one would take in the whole display. Some years the show is marvelously brilliant, the whole sky appearing to rain stars. The November meteors are especially dazzling every 33 or 34 years. The next great display will come in 1899 or 1900. The return of the November shooting stars are more numerous and bright every 33 or 34 years is that the fragments of the comet have not yet been evenly distributed around the ring, and the earth on those years passes through the place where its load probably was.

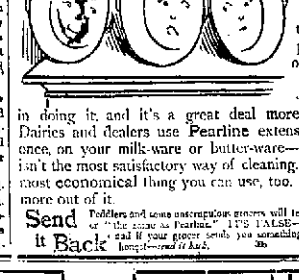
From the 10th to the 14th of November the meteoric shower will occur. If the nights are clear, it will pay all who can get a view of the open sky to catch nature's great panorama. To young people the shooting stars will be especially interesting. Probably the night of the 12th will be the best time if one goes on the lookout only one night. They appear in fine array by 1 o'clock.

They come principally from the same quarter of the heavens. The meteors between the 10th and 14th of November take their rise mostly in the constellation Leo. They are therefore called Leonids. They will come from a point in the heavens a little north of due east. It is the friction of moving through the earth's atmosphere at tremendous speed that makes them take fire. Only for that we should not see them. They are merely dark stones.

After all, what good did it do the robbers who held up the train and captured $20,000, more or less, from the express car at Apple Creek, Va.? They themselves have been captured, and one of them, who weakened, confessed and guided the officers to the spot where part of the plunder was hidden. He had got drunk and gambled away several hundred dollars of the money he carried off with him when the officers got him. That was three or four days after the robbery. If he had been let alone, probably every cent of it would have been squandered in three weeks. So what good?

Politics makes strange bedfellows more than poverty. Verily the days when the lion and the lamb lie down together have come when McKinley, except Tom Reed, the most rampant Republican of the fall campaign, makes a Republican speech in New Orleans to 13,000 people and is enthusiastically applauded.





Milk Pans, and pails, and cans, and bottles (even baby's)—or anything that you want particularly clean, ought to be washed with Pearline. You'll save work in doing it, and it's a great deal more thoroughly done. Dairies and dealers use Pearline extensively. Just try it once, on your milk-ware or butter-ware—and then say if it isn't the most satisfactory way of cleaning. Pearline is the most economical thing you can use, too. You get so much more out of it.

Send it Back

Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, he is honest—send it back. 369 JAMES PYLE, New York.

"Try one of these," said the admiral, holding out his cigar case. "They are not bad. I got them on the Mosquito coast. I was thinking of signalling to you, but you seemed so very happy out there."

"Mrs. Westmacott is a very clever woman," said the doctor, lighting the cigar. "By the way, you spoke about the Mosquito coast just now. Did you see much of the Hyla when you were out there?"

"No such name on the list," answered the seaman with decision. "There's the Hydra, a harbor defense turret ship, but she never leaves the home waters."

The doctor laughed. "We Hyla two separate worlds," said he. "The Hyla is the little green tree frog, and Hyla has founded some of his views on protoplasm upon the appearances of its nerve cells. It is a subject in which I take an interest."

"There were vermin of all sorts in the woods. When I have been on river service, I have heard it at night like the engine room when you can see the measured rattle. You can't sleep for the jarring and creaking and chirping. Great Scott, what a woman that is! She was across the lawn in three jumps. She would have made a captain of the foretop in the old days."

"She is a very remarkable woman."

"A very cruel one."

"A very amiable one in some things," remarked Mrs. Hay Denver.

"Look at that now!" cried the admiral, with a sting of his forefinger at the doctor. "You mark my words, Walker, if we don't look out that woman will raise a mutiny with her preaching. Here's my wife disaffected already, and your girls will be no better. We must smother, man, or there's an end of all discipline."

"No doubt she is a little excessive in her views," said the doctor, "but in the main I think as she does."

"Brave, doctor!" cried the lady.

"What, turned traitor to your sex! Well court martial you as a deserter."

"She is quite right. The professions are not sufficiently open to women. They are still far too much circumscribed in their employments. They are a feeble folk, the women who have to work for their bread poor, unorganized, timid, taking as a favor what they might demand as a right. That is why their case is not more constantly before the public, for if their cry for redress was as great as their grievance we would fill the world to the confusion of all others. It is all very well for us to be courteous to the rich, the refined, those to whom life is already made easy. It is a mere form, a trick of manner. If we are truly courteous, we shall stoop to lift up struggling womankind when she really needs our help—when it is life and death to her whether she has it or not. And then to rant about it being unwomanly to work in the higher professions. It is womanly enough to starve, but unwomanly to use the brains which God has given them. Is it not a monstrous contention?"

The admiral chuckled. "You are like one of those phonographs, Walker," said he. "You have had all this talked into you, and now you are reeling it off again. It's rank mutiny, every word of it, for man has his duties and woman has hers, but they are as separate as their natures are. I suppose that we shall have a woman bolstering her pennant on the flagship presently and taking command of the Channel squadron."

"Well, you have a woman on the throne taking command of the whole nation," remarked his wife, "and everybody is agreed that she does it better than any of the men."

The admiral was somewhat staggered by this home thrust. "That's quite another thing," said he.

"You should come to their next meeting. I am to take the chair. I have just promised Mrs. Westmacott that I will do so. But it has turned chilly, and it is time that the girls were indoors. Good night. I shall look out for you after breakfast for our constitutional, admiral."

The old sailor looked after his friend with a twinkle in his eyes.

"How old is he, mother?"

"About 50, I think."

"And Mrs. Westmacott?"

"I heard that she was 48."

The admiral rubbed his hands and shook with amusement. "Well find one of these days that three and two make one," said he. "I'll bet you a new bonnet on it, mother."

CHAPTER IV.

A SISTER'S SECRET.

"Tell me, Miss Walker. You know how things should be. What would you say was a good profession for a young man of 20 who has had no education worth speaking about and who is not very quick by nature?" The speaker was Charles Westmacott, and the time this same summer evening in the tennis ground, though the shadows had fallen now and the game been abandoned.

The girl glanced up at him, amused and surprised.

"Do you mean yourself?"

"Precisely."

"But how could I tell?"

"I have no one to advise me. I believe that you could do it better than any one. I feel confidence in your opinion."

"It is very flattering." She glanced up again at his earnest, questioning face, with its Saxon eyes and drooping flaxen mustache, in some doubt as to whether he might be jesting. On the contrary, all his attention seemed to be concentrated upon her answer.

"It depends so much upon what you can do, you know. I do not know you sufficiently to be able to say what natural gifts you have." They were walking slowly across the lawn in the direction of the house.

"I have none—that is to say, none worth mentioning. I have no memory, and I am very slow."

"But you are very strong?"

"Oh, if that goes for anything. I can put up a hundred pound bar till further order, but what sort of a calling is that?"

Some little joke about being called to the bar flickered up in Miss Walker's mind, but her compassion was in such obvious earnest that she stifled down her inclination to laugh.

"I can do a mile on the cinder track in 4.50 and a two seventy in 5.30, but how is that a help in life?" I might be a cricket professional, but it is not a very dignified position. Not that I care a straw about dignity, you know, but I should not like to hurt the old lady's feelings."

"You must—"

"Oh, my mind's. My parents were Bible-ists for many years, you know, and I suppose they had a—a—a—

FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT.

Peter Sommers Crushed to Death Beneath an Engine.

Brakeman Schultz Has a Hand Mashed —Conductor Frye Killed—Joseph Hagenauther Injured.

Peter J. Sommers, a brakeman on the Fort Wayne, Cincinnati and Louisville railroad, met with a shocking accident, which resulted in death, at Montpelier, last evening. Sommers was engaged in switching cars. A box car in front of the engine had to be uncoupled and the unfortunate man ran in between them. His foot slipped as he ran and he went directly under the engine pilot, where he was rolled about and was frightfully mutilated. He was taken out still alive but fatally injured. His breast was crushed in and his legs were frightfully skinned and bruised. The accident happened at 3:15 and the poor fellow lived until 5 o'clock, and his wife was able to reach him before he died and hear his last words. The remains were brought to this city on the 10:10 o'clock train last night, taken to Pelzer's morgue and thence to the home, 418 South Clinton street. Mr. Sommers was thirty-five years old and leaves a wife and two small children. Prior to the strike last summer he was a passenger conductor on the Grand Rapids road. After leasing that road he went to Ashley and for a few weeks had a freight run on the new Wabash line. Losing that position he came back to this city and took a position as freight brakeman on the "Muncie" road. The deceased was very popular with his fellow railroad men as well as with men in other walks of life. He was a member of the Catholic Benevolent Legion and of the Order of Railway Conductors. John Sommers, of No. 59 Hendricks street, is a brother of the deceased and there are two sisters living, who reside in the country, near this city. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock from St. Patrick's church. It will be under the auspices of the Catholic Benevolent Legion.

HAND MANGLED BY A SAW.

Joseph Hagenrather, an employe of Rhinesmith & Simonson, got his left hand in contact with a small circular saw yesterday. The third and fourth fingers were mangled frightfully, but the bones were not broken and Dr. J. E. Miller, the attending surgeon, hopes to save the injured members. Mr. Hagenrather is married and lives on Nirdlinger avenue. He will be unable to work for at least a month.

RAILROAD CONSOLIDATION.

A consolidation was effected yesterday in Toledo of the Fort Wayne and Eastern railway of Indiana and the Ohio Railway company. The new road will be known as the Findlay, Fort Wayne and Western Railway company. The officers of the new road are George Lord Day, president; C. G. Patterson, vice president; C. T. Lewis and Henry B. Ely, treasurers. The following directors were elected: G. L. Day and John Jacob Astor, of New York; J. H. Dayler, C. T. Lewis and A. W. Scott, of Toledo, and C. N. Haskell, of Ottawa.

POWER STATION ENGINE BROKEN.

A costly accident happened yesterday out at the electric light power station, on Spy Run avenue. The engineer in shutting down the big 500 horse-power Bass engine, neglected to first shut off a water pipe, and the result was the complete wreck of the main pillow block. The machinery was also more or less damaged and it will cost considerable to repair it. The work of repairing the engine will be commenced immediately.

AN OLD PITTSBURG CONDUCTOR KILLED.

News of the death by accident of Thomas R. Frye, of Crestline, was received at Supt. C. D. Law's office this morning. Wednesday afternoon Mr. Frye was walking on the Pittsburg tracks en route to his home east of the city, and while crossing a bridge near the cemetery an eastbound "light" engine struck him, fracturing his skull and bruising his body in a horrible manner. It is believed that one of his feet was fastened in the ties, holding him so securely that he could not get out of the way of the engine. He was taken home and remained unconscious until noon yesterday, when he died. Mr. Frye was sixty seven years old. He was for a number of years a passenger conductor on the Pittsburg road, but retired some time ago on account of old age. The funeral will take place at Crestline tomorrow.

WANTS A BONUS.

A committee of business men from Wabash, Ind., headed by the mayor of that city, visited President Ingalls of the Big Four, at Cincinnati, yesterday, and made overtures to him to build the new Big Four railroad shops at Wabash. President Ingalls replied that if Wabash would give the Big Four fifty acres of ground and $30,000 and would give natural gas at a lower price, it would probably secure them. The shops will cost $200,000. Other cities competing for them are Anderson, Marion and Greensburg. The Wabash committee will report to the home authorities.

NICKEL PLATE BRAKEMAN HURT.

E. E. Schultz, a Nickel Plate brakeman, who resides in Bellevue, and runs between that city and Fort Wayne, had the fingers of his left hand crushed yesterday morning while making a coupling at Leipsic Junction, Ohio. He was taken to his home, where the first and second fingers were amputated at the second joint. The unfortunate man is married and has worked on this end of the Nickel Plate only a few months.

BRIEF MENTION.

J. F. Pelper, the Wabash machinist, is still too ill to work.

Nickel Plate Brakeman D. Wyman is taking a few days' rest.

H. F Koopman, bollermaker at the Wabash shops, is sick and off duty.

Train dispatchers complain today of the poor manner in which their wires work.

Jap Edrall, of the electric light works, is off duty today on account of sickness.

Engineer Tony Kelker is still unable to work, though his injured shoulder is improving rapidly.

James Melcher, of Buffalo, has taken a position in the electric light works. He is a machinist.

This morning the American Academy of Railway Surgeons commenced its first convention in Chicago.

Charles Cole, general freight agent of the Pennsylvania company, passed through this city on the limited last night.

The metro department of the electric light works has been transferred from the main shop to the new laboratory building.

Charles Bray, of Youngstown, Ohio, is in the city looking for machinery for a new tin plate plant to be erected at Youngstown.

H. W. Henderson, clerk in Superintendent C. D. Law's office, has gone to Columbus, Ind., to attend the state convention of the Y. M. C. A.

A. Sloop and family, seven in number, left on the Wabash train this morning for Cornelius, Oregon, where they expect to reside in the future.

Pittsburg Conductor Owen Owens is at Prospect, Ohio, attending the funeral of his nephew, the late Brakeman Bonner, who was killed at Liverpool, Ind., a few days ago.

Frank Schaid has resigned his position in the Pittsburg shops. Mr. Schaid has worked for several years for the company. In fact he served an apprenticeship in the machine shop.

This month the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton will, as an experiment, sell tickets from points quite a distance to Saturday matinees at Cincinnati, with a view of continuing the custom should it prove profitable.

Frank Frarry, machinist in the Wabash shops, received a telegram this morning, informing him of the death of his brother-in-law in Michigan. Mr. and Mrs. Frarry will leave tonight for that state to attend the funeral.

Tomorrow the following manufacturing establishments will pay their employes: Bass Foundry and Machine works, Kerr Murray works, Western Gas Construction company, Fort Wayne Iron works and the Indiana Machine works.

This evening George Rhinesmith, shipping clerk for Rhinesmith & Simonson, will leave for San Jose, Cal., where his daughter, Mrs. Ray Lomas, resides. He will remain there until spring. Mr. Lomas is the western representative of the S. F. Bower Co. He also raises fruit and is the owner of a fine farm.

S. F. Bowser, the oil tank man, is attending the Y. M. C. A. convention at Columbus, Ind. Agent C. H. Newton, of the Wabash, expected to attend the convention, and left home yesterday morning with his valise with that intention, but he found so much business that needed his attention that he abandoned the trip, and is attending to freight affairs as usual today.

General Manager Hays and General Passenger Agent Crane, of the Wabash lines, have returned from New York.

Engineer George Moore, of the Nickel Plate, who was severely burned by gas three weeks ago, reported for duty yesterday.

C. S. Bradley, formerly electrician for the Electric Light company, is in the city on a visit. Mr. Bradley's home is in New York.

Conductor V. R. and Brakeman J. J. Davis have resumed their respective positions on the Nickel Plate, after several days' absence.

The report that the Pennsylvania Railroad company declared an unearned dividend is emphatically denied by one of its officers. The officer says the Pennsylvania has never declared a dividend which had not been earned.

General Passenger Agent Fee, of the Northern Pacific, has offered cash prizes for the best copy or design of advertisement for magazines. The first prize is $100, second $60, third $40. Only ticket agents are allowed to compete.

Nickel Plate engine 27 has just been turned out of the Stony Island shops and will do service between this city and Bellevue, on the local, taking the place of No. 16, which will be given a through freight run, with Engineer Shaver at the throttle.

Capt. J. M. Phillips, who resigned as superintendent of the Kentucky Union to go with the Santa Fe, was given a banquet on Monday night at Lexington, Ky., which was largely attended. Mr. Phillips was for years a passenger conductor on the Jeffersonville, Madison and Indianapolis.

Benjamin F. McKeen, who has been fuel and tie purchasing agent of the Vandalia, has resigned, to take effect when his successor is appointed, who will be a man from the Chicago division of the Pennsylvania lines. He has not been well for some months, and has for some time contemplated such action.

Julius A. Henry, a riveter in the employ of the Pennsylvania company, met with a painful and shocking accident yesterday morning. The head of a rivet struck his right eyeball and nearly forced it from the socket. Dr. Whelock attended the unfortunate man and found that the eyeball had been split completely in two pieces.

A prominent railroad official says it seems to him that the railroad era of this country might be divided into two periods—the first when the roads were small and could be managed economically, but were not, because they were rich; the second when they are in pressing need of every cent that can be saved, but are so big that it is impossible to watch the leaks.

W. H. Kerran, of the Fort Wayne Furniture company, is making a tour of the western states and is meeting with success in selling church furniture. Yesterday he sent in two orders which will keep the cabinetmakers busy for some time. Yesterday the company shipped the furniture for a church at Palmyra, Wis., and tomorrow will ship the seats for two churches at Ackley, Iowa.

The general manager of a prominent railroad remarked, when conversing on the pass question: "I shall not curtail my passes, as I think that I am a better judge as to who is entitled to a pass than any committee any railroad meeting may select. If I can see that by giving a pass to a shipper I can get his good will and secure some good shipments over our line and its connections I shall not hesitate to issue the pass, and I think my competitors, despite their protests against issuing passes, will do the same thing. But few general managers will give a pass where it is not for the interest of the road to do so, regardless of association agreements."

The Modern Beauty.

Thrives on good food and sunshine, with plenty of exercise in the open air. Her form glows with health and her face blooms with its beauty. If her system needs the cleansing action of a laxative remedy, she uses the gentle and pleasant liquid laxative, Syrup of Figs.

The Coming State.

When the present territory of Utah enters the union of states, it will do so with a population of about 300,000 souls and a climate unsurpassed in the wide world. It will be richer in agricultural resources than any other state. It has within its borders nearly all of the known minerals and metals—gold, silver, copper, iron, tin, etc., etc.—in abundant quantities. It has, best of all, a health giving climate, always temperate in summer and in winter. It has hot sulphur springs and is in fact, one large sanitarium. Utah is the ideal place to build a home in which to spend the balance of your days, surrounded by farm and orchard which guarantees all the necessities and most of the comforts of life. There are millions of homes now awaiting settlement. Send to J. U. Bennett, Salt Lake City, for a copy of "Utah's Resources." It will pay you to post yourself on the merits of the "coming state" which has been aptly termed "The Promised Land." 6-eod-d & w

Better Every Year.

Time was when the "glorious climate of California" did not attract tourists. But year after year the tide of travel sets in stronger and stronger every fall and winter toward this favored region. There is no climate like it on this continent for a winter resort, and the usual fine service on the Union Pacific system has this season been brought to a degree of perfection which leaves nothing to be desired.

a wave, and then the quiver and spring as she is tossed upward again! Oh, if our souls could transmigrate I'd be a seal or shave all birds that fly! But I leave you, admiral. Adieu!"

The old sailor was too much upset with sympathy to say a word. He suddenly shakes her broad muscular hand. She was half way down the garden path before she heard him calling her and saw his grizzled head and weather stained face looking out from behind the curtains.

"You may put me down for the platform," he cried and vanished abashed behind the curtain of his fingers, where his wife found him at lunchtime.

"I hear that you have had quite a long chat with Mrs. Westinacott," said she.

"Yes, and I think that she is one of the most sensible women that I ever know."

"Except on the woman's rights question, of course."

"Oh, I don't know. She has a good deal to say for herself on that also. In fact, mother, I have taken a platform ticket for her meeting."

Misses Lota and Della Rich, of West Washington street, entertained the Cosmopolitan club last evening. For their work this winter the club has taken up the study of American authors. James W. Riley and his works was the topic for last evening.

There is a new smile of triumph on the speaking features of the gentlemanly girl. There is a new jauntiness in her walk. There is a new cane in her hand. It is her latest, best loved acquisition. She has been rolling her umbrella into a rod of tiny dimensions for a long time past, but now at last she has come out with a cane proper and not with any weak-minded, feminine substitute for one.

A very pleasant surprise party was given Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Emma Meyer, on Douglas avenue, in honor of her birthday anniversary. Card games were played until 12 o'clock, when luncheon was served, after which various games were played until a late hour, when the guests departed. Those present were: Misses Madge Michael, Eda Meyer, Tillie Gacke, Minnie Nestel, Lena Rinke and Emma Meyer; Messrs. Chas. Pape, Gottlieb Steinler, Henry Rippo, Ed Scheuman, Christ. Borgman and Henry Bredtmueller.

Last Sunday a jolly crowd of young folks drove out to the farm of Mr. C. Wenss, four miles east of New Haven, to celebrate Mr. Wenss's birthday. Those present were: Sophie Prange, Louise Prange, Minna Rodenbeck, Minnie and Marry Linnemeyer, Emma Wolf, Hatie Wenss, Lizzie Revest, Sophie Wenss, Sophie Meyer, Messrs. Christ and Fred Prange, Fred Linnemeyer, Fred, Will, Ernst and Christ Hammeier, Henry Wenss, Ernst Revert, Mr. and Mrs. Polmeyer, Mr. and Mrs Sink, Mrs. Wilhelm Prange, Mrs. Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. Bodenbeck, Mr. and Mrs. Wolf, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wenss and many others. A delicious dinner and supper was served. Games were played and music was furnished by one of the gentlemen until a late hour when they returned home.

Women exhibit most admirable inventive powers when they are obliged to find a new way to earn a living and wish it to be one of refinement and pleasure as well as profit. The latest profession originated with Miss Shippen, of Philadelphia, who is an "entertainer of young persons and children" and a sort of sonddelor, as it were, of their parties. Her aim is to direct the amusements of the little ones according to their ages and tastes and to inform herself on the subject. She consults with the parents a few days before the party is to be given, and discusses all the details of menu, decorations and games. She arrives at the house a few hours before the time to see that everything is in readiness, and when they are all assembled she entertains them, interests them in games, both old and new, some of which she has invented, and through these teaches them a bit of German and French. While they are enjoying a game to the fullest she sits down to the piano and plays a waltz and they all begin to dance, as they are sure not to tire of any one thing. The key to her method is to make each child as happy as possible.

Mothers, Be sure and use "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for you children while cutting teeth. It is the best remedy of all. May8sodawly

AN OKLAHOMA TRAGEDY.

A School Teacher Kills a Farmer in Cold Blooded Style.

Prof. E. E. Hand, principal of the Kildare public schools, shot and killed George F. Rohr, formerly mayor of Arkansas City, the other morning in a quarrel over a farm. Rohr commenced plowing on the claim that both he and Hand claimed, and Hand ordered him off and shot him four times with a rifle. Hand started at once to Newkirk to give himself up to the officers and became crazy and screamed at the top of his voice all the way to Newkirk and after he was locked up. He told the officers what he had done and asked them to look him up. At the same time he was shouting and screaming as loud as he could.

Young Girls' Sensitiveness

and modesty often puzzle their mothers and baffle the physician. They withhold what ought to be told. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saves young girls from the dangers of organic disturbance. It relieves suppression, retention, or irregularity of menses. Nature has provided a time for purification. If the channels are obstructed, the entire system is poisoned and misery comes. What will cure the mother will cure the daughter—their organism is the same.

DR. YOUNGES

Medical and Surgical Institute.

Our readers should bear in mind that Dr. J. W. Younge is at his office in this city Thursdays, Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays, of each week. This affords an excellent opportunity for the citizens of this city and county to consult this eminent specialist close to their homes. He has performed many marvelous and seemingly miraculous cures of prominent people all over this country. Dr. Younge stands in the foremost rank of his chosen profession, and is highly esteemed by all of our best citizens. He is considered a reliable, trustworthy and honorable physician well worthy the large and lucrative practice he has had for many years. A number of our best citizens have been cured of long standing chronic diseases, by him, among whom are Wm. E. Labby, J. W. Locklin, Samuel G. Kumfer, L. W. Noble, Martin Noark, Edward Reardon, P. G. Stillman, D. F. Augustine, Milton Avery, Fred S. Bothner, and hundreds of others. There is no physician in this state that treats as many cases of chronic and private diseases as does Dr. Younge, or that has as good success. He has been located in this city nearly twenty years, during which time he has had the largest and most successful practice in the state. Dr. Younge has examined and prescribed for two thousand, three hundred and sixty-seven patients since the first day of last January, and has sent medicine to three hundred and forty-six patients residing in seven different states. The fact that today he is more widely recommended by grateful people whom he has cured in every walk of life, than any other specialist in the United States, is not astonishing. Dr. Younge makes people well and that is the secret of his great success. His institute is located at the corner of Calhoun and Lewis streets, opposite Library Hall. Office days, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

SAW MILL BURNED.

Suspicion That it Was the Work of Incendiaries.

Indiana Bakery Saw Mill Destroyed by Flames—Will be Rebuilt Immediately.

This morning at 4:30 o'clock Lepold Scott and Ed Baird called the fire department to East Super street, where Indiana Bakery's saw mills, just north of the Nickel Plate and east of the artificial gas works, were on fire. When the department reached the spot it was found that the mill was a mass of flames and the question of the firemen's efforts to raise the machinery and surrounding property. The saw mill was totally destroyed and the machinery slightly injured, but all the logs and lumber in the mill yard was saved.

The fire started at some point in the engine and boiler room and there are two theories as to the cause. One is that a spark from the furnace ignited the dry timber in the building and the other is that it is the work of an incendiary. In support of the latter theory it is stated that early this morning a watchman on the Nickel Plate railway saw a man walking about the sawmill yard, and he supposed, took no notice of him. He scattered about the place. He cycled fire and fled from the fellow away. Not much evidence, however, is placed in this story.

A SENTINEL reporter saw Mr. Baker at his East Main street home this morning and learned that the loss was about $5,000 without any insurance. He stated that the mill would be rebuilt immediately.

INTO A STREET CAR.

Herbert Buck Meets With a Painful Accident.

Herbert Buck, driver of a United express wagon, met with a serious accident this morning. He was driving out of the alley opposite the Cathedral on Calhoun street, just as Nob Hoe street car No. 18 came along. The car struck the express wagon and knocked Buck against one of the standards in the top of the wagon. He was rendered unconscious and was taken to the express office, where Dr. Ross examined him. Later he was conveyed to his home, No. 259 West Jefferson street, in an ambulance wagon. The injuries, while painful, are not considered dangerous.

Proceedings for a Bill Collector.

A novel proceeding in justice court was that of Thomas Bell, a bill collector, who appeared before Justice Christopher and asked for a warrant for the arrest of Frank Hoffman, a saloon keeper on Broadway. Bell alleged that Hoffman owed him $5 and refused to pay it. Hoffman was arrested and brought into court. He said he owed Bell the money, but that he had a counter claim against him for $5 for services rendered. Bell was discharged and Hoffman was ordered to pay the costs of the proceedings.
